

Ship Impaled on Rock On West Island Coast

WAR-TIME BUILT in Sorel, Quebec, Greek freighter Glafkos was launched as Ss. Algonquin Park, looked like this similar-class ship during convoy crossings of Atlantic during charter to British.

City Tugs Battle High Seas

Two powerful Victoria-based deep-sea tugs today were fighting 40-mile-an-hour winds and raging seas trying to free a Greek freighter hard aground on the west coast of Vancouver Island, at the entrance to Ucluelet Inlet, at the mouth of Barkley Sound.

The 10,000-ton Greek-owned tramp, Ss Glafkos ran aground in dense fog Monday night. She was holed and hung up on an underwater pinnacle of rock which has pierced the hull and flooded the engine room.

The two tugs dispatched to the freighter's aid Monday night are the Pacific salvage veteran Sudbury I and the Island Challenger, both owned by Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

BOUNCED AROUND

The freighter was in grave peril from pounding seas which bounced her around on the pinnacle. There are two other rocks nearby.

The salvage tugs had difficulty getting close enough to get a line aboard due to the heavy seas, and were further hampered by continued fog.

Jack Armstrong, keeper of the Amphitrite Point light, about a mile from the wreck, reported to the Times by telephone the weather was "simply terrible."

POOR VISIBILITY

He said visibility was very poor, but occasional glimpses through the fog indicated the freighter was "working" up and down on the rock.

The captain of the Bamfield lifeboat said at 1 p.m. "seas are running mighty high."

He said the crew is still aboard the freighter, but the lifeboat was ready to take the men off if needed.

The ship is without power, lights or radio communication. She radioed for aid at 7:44 p.m., but by 8:15 or so the water had flooded her dynamo. Lightkeeper Armstrong said her last radio communication was between 8:15 and 8:30 p.m. He said only one man aboard, the radio operator, could speak English.

DIVER THERE

Capt. Roy Blake, Island Tug port captain in charge of the salvage attempt, and diver Jack Daley is on the scene.

The Tofino and Bamfield lifeboats and an RCAF helicopter were standing by at Tofino to take off the crew if necessary, although the freighter's captain, E. Petras, said early there were no injuries and the crew was not in danger.

The freighter was inbound for Vancouver from Japan, to load grain for Venezuela. She went aground in an area once known as the "graveyard of the Pacific."

Dog Pack Tears Girl To Death

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Two armed men today hunted down a pack of killer dogs that ripped to death six-year-old Deborah June Richards in the tiny northwestern Ontario community of Auden Sunday.

At last report, the two men had shot five of the dogs. Several more still were loose.

The little girl's death has stunned the community of 300 and sent residents into open mourning.

"Anybody you talked to had tears in their eyes," said Police Constable B. E. Dorigo, who helped investigate the incident in the community of 300 persons 200 miles northeast of here.

The girl was attacked and killed about 170 yards from the Auden community hall after she had been let out of her father's truck.

Police authority for the hunt was needed because Auden is in a game preserve and there is a ban on the carrying of firearms.

Const. Dorigo said the dogs came from the Indian village of Umbakika, near Auden. The dogs, he said, always sought food scraps at Abitibi's cook-house, where single male employees were fed.

Police said the Richards girl was walking home from the Auden community hall, after regular Sunday classes had been cancelled, when the attack occurred.

STRAYS FOLLOW TRUCK

Mr. Richards, who had taken his daughter to the hall earlier, had driven back home with the family's German shepherd in the back of his truck.

The pack of strays followed the truck, barking at the family dog which had frequently fought with the strays in the past.

After Mr. Richards reached home, the strays had turned around and met Deborah walking home.

Apparently worked up by the chase and smelling the German shepherd's scent on Deborah, the dogs attacked the girl, tore her clothing and mauled her to death.

Algeria Killings

ALGIERS (Reuters)—French military officials announced today that 12 persons were killed and 37 wounded as right-wing European extremists and Moslem insurgents marked New Year's Day with a wave of violence throughout Algeria.

"This decision does not affect our conviction that we should keep in mind first of all the interest of the population in negotiations. It can reasonably be expected that Indonesia, too, is willing to join the conference table without previous conditions. The diplomatic galleries were packed as Premier Jan Quay read an eight-page statement on its New Guinea policy, which represented a drastic change in The Netherlands' previous stand in the dispute.

Announcing the government's decision to drop the self-determination principle, the premier said:

"I believe that I have gone as far as it is now possible for the government to go, without jeopardizing the result of current diplomatic contacts."

Following De Quay's remarks, the socialist opposition demanded participation in a new "national cabinet" that would work out a "peaceful settlement" of the New Guinea dispute.

De Quay's statement came amid these other developments in the growing Indonesia crisis that threatens to set off a war in the southeast Pacific.

● The Dutch announced that Indonesia has cut off all postal telephone and cable links with Holland.

● In Jakarta, Indonesian defence minister Gen. Abdul Harris Nasution warned Holland that Indonesia is determined to liberate West Irian (Dutch New Guinea) by force if necessary. "We love peace, but we love freedom more," he said at a veterans' rally.

● In Hollandia, the Dutch Government assured its civil servants in New Guinea that it would guarantee any personal losses should the Indonesians set off military action in the area.

● In Singapore, an Indonesian consulate official said scores of Chinese residents of that Far Eastern city were among the increasing numbers of persons who have responded to Indonesian President Sukarno's call for volunteers to help "liberate" West Irian.

City Hall Lights Way To Centenary

Sparkling like a freshly-frosted cake, Victoria's 84-year-old City Hall took on its new look for the centenary Sunday midnight when retiring Mayor Percy Scurrah, at right, pressed floodlight switch. By Monday morning he had turned over his chain of office to Mayor Dick Wilson, shown at left making centennial proclamation, inviting visitors from far and wide to help us celebrate gala year. WELL-ARMED TRIBESMEN BATTLE IRAQI FORCES

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—About 800 Kurdish tribesmen, armed with bazookas and mortars, are fighting government forces and enemy tribes in the snow-covered hills of northern Iraq, sources here said today.

Premier Abdel Karim Kassem has launched police attacks against the turbaned rebels. The Iraqi government also has withdrawn and transferred Kurdish troops stationed with the government army in the north, and is using air attacks where necessary to suppress the revolt, the sources reported.

Goofballs Blamed In Prison Riot

MONTREAL (CP)—All is quiet and normal at Montreal's riot-racked Bordeaux jail today, a prison official said.

A spokesman in the office of acting jail governor Lt.-Col. Leon Lambert said 400 rebellious prisoners have been returned without trouble to their cells.

The prisoners, who staged a four-hour New Year's Day riot, spent part of the night tramping about in two flooded cell blocks. The water came from fire hoses used to put out fires and quell prisoner resistance.

Col. Lambert estimated the damage to the two prison wings at $30,000.

Four men, firemen Robert Way and three prisoners, were injured. Way was struck by a piece of metal thrown by a prisoner.

Later, prison officials said two prisoners were taken to St. Luke Hospital suffering from serious gunshot wounds.

Colonel Lambert said the cause of injuries to the prisoners could not be determined immediately.

One prisoner, thrown naked from his cell, was bleeding from cuts over his whole body. Apparently, he had been slashed viciously with broken glass.

Cause of the riot was attributed "at least partly" to the use of goofballs—barbiturates—smuggled into the prison.

The uprising began with grumbling and shouts among the prisoners in two wings of the jail at 2:30 p.m. It burst into a major riot two hours later when prisoners from the "trial block" where those awaiting trial are kept, began serving a supper of roast beef to fellow prisoners.

A prison official said "trial prisoners" are habitual trouble makers. Bordeaux, on the shores of Riviere des Prairies in the north end, contains only criminals serving sentences of two years or less.

"They immediately started yelling and throwing the food and plates into the centre of the cell block," said Colonel Lambert. "Within a few seconds they were out of their cells starting fires and tearing up everything that could be moved."

Revolt in Portugal Speedily Put Down

SALAZAR
... hunts foes

BEJA (AP)—The hunt was on today for political associates of a rebel leader who tried unsuccessfully to seize a military barracks and touch off a revolution against Premier Antonio Salazar's Portuguese government.

Capt. Joao Maria Paulo Varela Gomes, an army officer turned politician, lay near death in Beja Hospital. Manuel Serra, a former Roman Catholic youth leader who authorities said shared leadership of the uprising with Gomes, was captured while heading for the Spanish border with four heavily-armed companions.

Between 40 and 50 persons, most of them workers, were apparently in the band that engaged Salazar's troops in a three-hour gun battle Sunday at the barracks of the Third Infantry Regiment. Officials at first announced all had been killed or captured.

But so far the government has announced only one rebel killed, two wounded and 20 others captured. It appeared some might still be at large, although the rebel casualties were believed to have been much higher than the government said.

Most notable casualty on the government side was Lt. Col. Jaime Filipe da Fonseca, undersecretary for war who rushed to this southern city 105 miles southeast of Lisbon. He ordered the government forces to hold their fire and then walked into the barracks to demand that the rebels surrender. They shot him down, and he died later in hospital.

TWO WEAR UNIFORM

Dr. Antonio Marques Frago, civil governor of the Beja district, said only two of the rebels were in army uniforms—including Gomes, Reuters reported.

The Portuguese national radio said several Communists were among those held. Governor Frago said the rebels came from outside the barracks and only two soldiers inside co-operated with them, Reuters said.

After the uprising the government placed all police and military units in a "state of prevention." There was no general alert, but a huge Lisbon rally scheduled for Wednesday night was cancelled, officially in mourning for da Fonseca.

Salazar was to have addressed the rally to outline Portuguese policy for 1962 following a year of painful and embarrassing setbacks ranging from the seizure of the ill Santa Maria of the high seas to the Indian seizure of Goa.

WARM READ IN COLD BED HOT TOPIC IN BRITAIN

LONDON (AP)—Readers of The Times warmed up the newspaper's editorial columns Monday with suggestions on how to read in bed without freezing your hands and arms.

"The answer about how to read in bed without getting cold is—learn Braille."

He quoted the late Lord Grey—who became almost totally blind—as once saying:

"You people have no idea how to read in bed. But it is all right for me. I keep the book under the bedclothes."

The question of how to read in bed without freezing became an issue after Lord Birkett wrote an article in The Times on the pleasures of reading in bed.

Realistic readers—in a nation that still regards central heating as a strange, unhealthy North American custom—immediately challenged His Lordship.

"It would be a great service to those of us who do not enjoy central heating if he, or any kind reader, could suggest how this can be done without hands and shoulders becoming numb with cold, wrote Sidney Morris.

Lord Birkett replied:

"I can only say that I have no central heating in my bedroom, but find that one bar of an electric fire and a thick sweater defeat the coldest nights. The important thing is to warm the bed with a hotwater bottle or an electric blanket before getting into it."

A reader named John S. Cummings wrote to The Times, saying:

"Try reversing your dressing gown and wearing it outside the bed covers—a practice which I have found successful for many years."

As an afterthought he added:

"A pair of mittens is invaluable in particularly cold weather."

(Times News Services)

WINNERSH, Eng.—Farmer Percy Richardson found himself on the horns of a dilemma Sunday night. He had the choice of facing a mad bull or freezing to death.

Richardson was flung into a pond by the bull after a furious chase across a meadow. For 20 minutes he stood chest deep in the freezing water while the bull waited by the edge, pawing the snow-covered ground.

Finally Richardson could stand the cold no longer. He waded from the water and made for a nearby tree. The bull caught him and tossed him into the lower branches.

For another 15 minutes Richardson clung to his haven, occasionally shouting, "Help! Mad bull!"

A passing farmer heard the shouts and came to Richardson's rescue with a tractor. The bull was cornered and later shot.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE—A Presbyterian minister suggested today Queen Elizabeth should leave some of London's homeless to come and live in Buckingham Palace. "There must be a great deal of room to spare in the palace," Rev. William Barbour wrote in his church magazine.

"I know if the Queen allowed people in need for accommodation to share her house many other people would follow suit."

VANCOUVER—Three stubborn swimmers refused to give in when the Polar Bear Club held its annual New Year's Day swim in English Bay Monday.

Wolfe Schuldt, 24, Beverly-Anne Cronin, 17, and Barry Sullivan, 19, had to be called out after 57 minutes in the 43-degree water—some time after 106 others had waded back to shore.

"That isn't fair," called Miss Cronin from the fog shrouding the bay.

"But that's my husband out there," called Mrs. Schuldt from the beach.

Eventually the three came out together, equal winners.

The swimmers ranged in age from the perennial entrant Mrs. Catherine Bush, 83, to three-year-old Bruce Stewart.

An unidentified man who went in fully clothed apart from the others wasn't allowed to collect a prize.

TRURO, N.S.—Lawrence MacGillivray of Spencer's Island, N.S., has his $1,000 bill back after several days of anxiety.

He passed the bill at a local hardware store for a $2 note and took his change without noticing the difference. Gerald Quigley, the store proprietor, did not notice it either until later.

Quigley kept the bill, expecting the harassed donor to advertise. MacGillivray did, identifying the bill by serial number. A few days later he had his $1,000 back.

OTTAWA—A dog has joined the Diefenbaker household.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker received the as yet nameless Golden Labrador male pup from his wife as a Christmas gift, and pup and prime minister are reported forming what might in political terms be called "an affectionate association."

Mr. Diefenbaker's last dog was a German Shepherd he had back in his days as freshman member of Parliament for Lake Centre.

He hasn't had much time for pets since then, and Mrs. Diefenbaker suspects she will have to look after the puppy's care and feeding.

Ex-Policeman Bobby Ross Dies at 67

Robert "Bobbie" Ross, veteran police officer, died at the Royal Jubilee Hospital early this morning. He was 67 years old.

Mr. Ross was one of the best-known police officers on Vancouver Island before his retirement from the RCMP a few years ago.

For many years he was the head of a provincial police detachment at Shawnigan Lake where he was unofficially known as "mayor" of the district. That was before the RCMP took over from the provincial police force.

Known as "Bobbie" throughout Vancouver Island, Mr. Ross was educated at South Park School, Victoria. He was an office boy and later a sports editor of the Victoria Daily Times in his youth.

OVERSEAS SERVICE

He was a veteran of the First World War, having served with the 51st Battery overseas.

Since his retirement from the police force, Mr. Ross was employed by the legal firm, Harman McKenzie and Murphy.

He is survived by the widow, Marion, at home; two sisters, Marjorie W. O. Cameron of Victoria and Beverly Thomas Wilde of Duncan.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Teacher, Girl Found Near Home

CAYUGA, Ont. (CP)—A young school teacher will appear in court here Thursday to face a charge of abducting a 15-year-old girl pupil whom she took on an 11-day trip to Florida and back.

Charles Richeson appeared before Justice of the Peace Alice J. Murphy Monday and was remanded in custody.

The pair was found by police Monday huddled beneath a blanket in a car less than seven miles from the home of the girl, Susan Vernet.

The couple went to Florida and were en route to Hamilton, 20 miles north of here, when the car ran out of gas. "Tired, sick and cold," they had huddled under the blanket to keep from freezing in the 15-degree weather.

Police said the pair had been to Jacksonville, Fla., and that bills from several Florida motels were found in the car along with a toy panda, a woman's white overcoat, a pair of high-heeled shoes and some groceries.

Police said that Richeson left with $325 but he did not have a cent when found.

After being questioned by police, the girl was returned to her home where her brothers and sisters gave her presents that had been waiting for her under the Christmas tree since the day she vanished.

Richeson also faces a charge of fraud, in connection with the purchase of a car and he has been charged with desertion of his 17-year-old wife and six-week-old daughter. Mrs. Richeson, now living with her parents in Burlington, Ont., has said she does not want to see her husband again.

Pressure Feared by Tshombe

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Katanga's secessionist President, Moïse Tshombe has rejected the central government's call for the Katangan Assembly to meet at the United Nations base at Kamina.

Tshombe called the central government's action "illegal" Monday and announced he was going ahead with plans to have the assembly meet Wednesday in Elisabethville, the provincial capital.

Kamina is also in Katanga, but Tshombe apparently feels the central government would be able to bring pressure to bear on assembly delegates there when they meet to satisfy his Dec. 21 agreement with Premier Cyrille Adoula.

On its part, the central government fears the strength of Tshombe's influence if the assembly meets here.

Tshombe also announced that he has ordered the 1,800-man Katangan garrison at Kongolo to withdraw after fierce fighting with central government troops for control of the town for nearly a week.

MINING CENTRE FALLS

The tin-mining centre of Manono has also fallen to anti-Tshombe forces and there were reports that the Baluba, the political wing of the Baluba tribes, who are bitter enemies of Tshombe, control one-third of the province.

However, Tshombe denied radio reports that the Kapona, also under attack by the central government, had fallen.

Tshombe accused the central government troops of pillaging and burning villages around Kongolo. He said Katangan army casualties were slight, but many civilians had been killed by mortar fire.

ALGERIAN REBEL premier Youssef Ben Khedda left Tunis today for Rabat, capital of Morocco for a crucial meeting of the insurgents. The move to Rabat was significant, underlining the belief that the rebels now consider Morocco a closer ally of the Algerians than Tunisia.

DREDGE SAFE ENDING EPIC OF ATLANTIC

HALIFAX (CP) — The trouble-plagued dredge Cartagena reached Halifax harbor today, barely escaping a blizzard.

The $4,000,000 dredge, owned by the Standard Dredging Company of New York, tied up alongside a salvage pier after the Canadian tug Foundation Vigilant brought her into port in a snowstorm that struck the Nova Scotia coast.

For 2½ days the Vigilant had struggled in heavy seas to tow her cantankerous charge 200 miles to safety.

The Cartagena's troubles began Christmas Day when she broke away from the Vigilant while being towed from Quebec City to Baltimore. The two vessels were seen about 200 miles south of Halifax.

ECM To Try Again On Farm Policies

BRUSSELS (AP) — The European Common Market council of ministers Saturday night pushed back the deadline on whether to pass into the second stage of economic integration. They were unable to agree on a common agricultural policy.

The Common Market treaty calls for the members to enter what is considered the most decisive stage at midnight Sunday night, but the ministers adjourned until Thursday without decision on whether to take the step.

Ludwig Erhard, West German minister of economics and present council chairman, told reporters that the council adjourned only for the holidays and asserted agreement would be reached quickly once the council resumed talks.

The European Economic Community agreement calls for a full economic and customs union of its members in three stages of four years each. Each stage is to bring them one-third of the way to ward tariff-free trade among the members and a common set of tariff rates against the rest of the world.

Under the 1957 Treaty of Rome, the first stage ends New Year's Eve but a decision on entering the second stage, and only this stage, may be postponed for as much as three years.

NO MIGHTY POWER NOW MAC REMINDS BRITONS

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan reminded the British nation Sunday it is no longer the mighty power that once policed the world and must depend on its allies to survive.

Macmillan, in a sober New Year's message, said Britain's "period of supremacy" in the world is gone and that its role now is that of a working partner "in the great alliance which the free world has built against the Communist threat."

New President Promises Freedom for Dominicans

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Rafael Bonnelly, president-to-be of the Dominican Republic's new council of state, promised Dominicans freedom of assembly and discussion Monday and warned the armed forces against interference in the affairs of the new anti-Trujillo government.

Bonnely, named to succeed President Joaquin Balaguer as head of the ruling body, declared at the swearing-in of the seven-man council that freedom to meet and discuss all issues would be observed "because truth can be achieved only through conscientious and dispassionate discussion."

He said that the council, which will assume all legislative and executive powers until installation of an elected government early in 1963, wished to emphasize "our decided endeavor to maintain unalterable" the armed forces' non-political status.

Maj. Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarría, chief of the armed forces, has vowed to support the council. Rodriguez Echavarría led a military move which crushed an apparent coup planned by Trujillo diehards last October and paved the way for the expulsion of the family of the late Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo.

Sworn in as Vice-president of the council, Bonnelly will take over from Balaguer when the latter resigns, possibly within a week. Balaguer drew up the plan for an interim government and promised to quit when the Organization of American States lifts its economic and diplomatic sanctions against the Dominican Republic.

President Kennedy has announced the United States favors lifting the sanctions imposed against the old Trujillo regime for plotting to assassinate President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela.

Bonnely represents the National Civic Union, major opposition faction which agreed to give the Balaguer plan a chance after weeks of off-and-on negotiations.

400 Held in Lebanon as Revolt By Anti-Nasser Rightists Fails

BEIRUT (AP) — About 400 persons were reported under arrest today, following the unsuccessful uprising by a right-wing extremist group seeking to push Lebanon into an anti-Nasser bloc with other Arab countries.

Large stores of arms were also seized Monday in raids on villages where the Popular Social party maintained strongholds. The party wants Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Palestine and Cyprus joined under one Arab flag but strongly opposes President Nasser's pan-Arab movement led from Cairo.

Premier Rashid Karami's cabinet dissolved the party and announced restrictions on political parties, the press and foreigners. This followed reports that many of the plotters were from Syria, Jordan and Palestine.

Two captains who spearheaded the uprising Sunday were still at large.

At least five persons were killed in sharp fighting before the plotters fled.

Competition in the Air

MR. GRANT McCONACHIE, president of the Canadian Pacific Air Lines, makes an impressive case for competition in airplane service.

He admits, to begin with, that his own company lost $4.7 millions last year in its competition with the government-owned Trans-Canada Air Lines and says that all over America commercial aviation is going through a difficult period.

But it is quite wrong, he says, to say that this is the result of wasteful competition. It is the result, he says, of a revolution in the industry—the huge cost of replacing propeller planes with modern jets.

Besides, for the time being, the sudden arrival of the jet, with its large seating capacity and high speed, has temporarily provided more service than the public can use. Hence the deficits in the CPA, the TCA and many American lines.

This, says Mr. McConachie, is a temporary phase. Last year the airlines of the free world flew about 68 billion passenger miles. By 1965 they will fly 117 billion miles and, by 1975, 226 billion. The increasing traffic in Canada, he believes, will soon turn the present deficits into profits.

Meanwhile competition has not injured the TCA nearly so much as it and the public suppose. Its revenues, Mr. McConachie observes, have been increasing by about $14 millions a year to a total of $149 millions last year. If it is assumed that all the traffic developed by the CPA in its very limited trans-Canada service is traffic lost to the TCA then this represents only about 6 per cent of the government line's domestic revenue. Of course Mr. McConachie does not admit even that. He thinks the private line is developing new traffic which didn't exist before.

Moreover, he argues that competition, even though strictly limited on the trans-Canada route, has been highly advantageous to the travelling public. It has forced the TCA to improve its service—an improvement which must have been noted by all travellers.

Not only has service improved but the fares on transcontinental routes have been reduced until Canada now has the lowest air fares in North America and service as good as any in the world. It will be noted, however, that where the TCA faces no competition in short-run services it has raised its fares. As usual, competition has benefited the public where it is permitted.

"Either Canada must adopt an energetic, aggressive and enlightened air policy," says Mr. McConachie, "or our air industry will falter and fail in the contest for competitive survival. . . . The greatest menace to our air future are those who would parlay the temporary financial difficulties of the air industry into a policy of stifling restrictions."

Marked for Early Action?

ALDERMAN EDGELOW'S assertion that malls for the downtown area are high on the list of projects for this year is a welcome one.

The two suggested for early action: Broad Street between Fort and Broughton, and part of Fisgard west of Government, would make attractive additions to the city's shopping district.

But planning should not stop with these two relatively minor improvements. Much more is needed if the city centre is not to deteriorate increasingly in the future. The competition of attractive shopping places on the outskirts of the city must be met by downtown retailers.

Another Blow to Mine-Mill

MR. KENNETH A. SMITH, national president in Canada of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), says the finding of an examiner in the United States that Mine-Mill there is Communist-infiltrated will have no effect in Canada.

Technically Mr. Smith may be right. The Communist Party is not illegal in Canada. And, says Mr. Smith, the Canadian branch of the union operates as an independent entity.

If the American declaration is accepted in that country, Mine-Mill will cease to enjoy rights as a bargaining agent there under terms of the American Labor Relations Act.

While the legal stricture imposed in the United States finds no direct statutory parallel in Canada, Mine-Mill here is obviously encountering difficulties because of its red-tinted leadership.

Very recently the United Steelworkers of America took over from Mine-Mill as the bargaining agent for an important Port Colborne union. The vote ousting Mine-Mill in that case reflected the workers' rejection of the union as a Communist-dominated group. United Steelworkers, following that victory, announced Sudbury as their next objective.

Moving west, they intend eventually to invade British Columbia, the stronghold of Harvey Murphy, where once again the red-tinted leadership will be a target for attack.

Communism may not be illegal in Canada, but labor groups, specifically the big associations, are finding a way to deal with those who give allegiance to Communism.

So Who Cares, Comrade?

REPORTS FROM SOVIET-BLOC countries— and from Russia itself—reveal a continuing problem for ardent communists.

The trouble seems to be that people are people, whether they swear allegiance to the Lenin ideal or not. Newspapers in the various countries behind the iron curtain are complaining. In Yugoslavia, President Tito criticizes "party capitalists" and the "easy-money" practices of "smart" commercial officials. A Moscow fortnightly attacks "unsatisfactory party secretaries."

In Warsaw the party paper is disturbed by "apathetic members."

The tone of complaint is shared by many of the bloc countries—abuses, by local party officials, bureaucrats who defy criticism or fake statistics to cover up production failures, village nabobs who "decide everything," and apathy among the rank and file as well as a disinclination among young people to join the party.

Communism, it seems, has yet to produce the universally perfect man. Like all other religions it must recognize apostasy, inertia, and lack of interest as traits of the human character. In other words, people just get fed up—even in communist countries which used to be harping continually on the decadence of democracies.

Rugger Sees the 'Torpedo Ball'

THE HOME OF ENGLISH rugby most certainly has not accepted the forward pass popular in Canadian and American football. No sir! And it never will as long as there's a twick in Twickenham.

But— If you know the technique of throwing a forward pass, you can use it in the fine old English game. Peter Dawkins, former All-American proved the point in the Dark Blue-Light Blue rugger classic the other day.

From a line-out, where opposing forwards usually line up close to the sideline, All-American Rhodes Scholar Dawkins signalled his team. The forwards lined up in a most unorthodox position in the middle of the field. Mr. Dawkins delivered his special throw-in what the English now call a "torpedo ball," a 45-yard pass that travelled like a bullet to his own teammate across the pitch.

The pass was the talk of the rugger social season. Cambridge was ready for it, though. Pitt,

Is It a Serious Threat to Confederation?

THE national capital is already busy with plans for a glittering centennial. Fine new are to be opened in 1967. A "Mile of Living History" will greet the tourist on Ottawa's Sussex Street. Speeches will be made (some have already been made) about the glories of national unity; about Canada's first 100 years. But it is only five minutes from Sussex Street to the Province of Quebec. Out of Quebec in recent weeks have come strange cries, oddly discordant with the great themes of One Canada. A Mari Usque ad Mare.

Western

"Confederation is a fool's paradise." "The State of Quebec is the national state of French Canadians." "You need us more than we need you." "A bas la Confédération!" "Chaput for us."

Some say that separatism is nothing. Or as the prime minister explained at a press conference nothing new but a sentiment, always latent, which rises or falls with the times. If it is nothing, why do so many of our political leaders travel to Quebec to attack it in their speeches? M. St. Laurent, M. Dorian, Mr. Pearson, M. Seigney, Mr. Fulton, M. Balcer—the list is impressive.

What are English Canadians to make of this agitation? What are they to make of the ferment behind it? Why have French Canadians, traditionally conservative in their attitudes, suddenly turned to critical self-examination? Why do they question so many established institutions (including, for example, the whole system of education in Quebec province)? What forces have unleashed this Quiet (and sometimes not-so-quiet) Revolution?

To Present Views

The present writer, an English-speaking, Protestant Anglican, makes no claim to any special knowledge of Quebec or even of Canadian historians of the French culture. The purpose of these articles is not to argue a case (which I would not be competent to argue) but, quite simply, to present to English Canadians the views of a number of eminent Quebec educators, editors, businessmen, civil servants and political leaders; views and counsels pressed upon me with what I felt to be a sense of urgency.

I did not seek out separatists, partly because I believe that they have made their case with clarity—up to the point at which they close off the argument—and partly because it seems silly to ask a separatist if separatism is to be taken seriously.

It is extraordinarily difficult to rid oneself of preconceived notions and prejudices; to make one's mind, as it were, a tabula rasa on which others can write. This was, however, what I tried to do.

One also gathers personal impressions. These I have not tried to exclude although I hope that they are presented in such a way that they can readily be identified as my own and not confused with what others, better informed on these matters, had to say.

The first question to be asked is: What is separatism? It is obviously, in the first place, an idea. It has had a considerable history, although for some years, it lived below the surface of Quebec life. The "new separatism," I am told is much better articulated than the old and the case for it has been set out in the book by Dr. Marcel Chaput, Pourquoi Je Suis Séparatiste.

Three Movements

This idea has taken visible form in three separatist movements. The oldest, Fédération Laïque, was launched about five years ago by M. Raymond Barbeau, a young-French teacher at a commercial high school. It is highly conservative in social outlook.

On the opposite wing is l'Action Socialiste pour l'Indépendance du Québec. As the name implies, this group is socialist and inclined to be anti-clerical. It seems to be confined largely to the Montreal area and is, I am assured, very small.

But the faction which has made news is Dr. Chaput's Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale. According to Andre Laurin, the brilliant editor of Le Devoir, this group—not much more than a year old—carefully avoids the language of fanaticism and appeals to people of moderate views in social and economic matters.

Even the Rassemblement is small in numbers. It is estimated that the strength of all three groups does not exceed 6,000 (some suggest a smaller figure). Furthermore, this strength is mainly concentrated in the Montreal and Ottawa-Hull areas.

There is no separatist party. But separatism is more than an idea and a movement. It is also a sentiment and an emotion. As such it moves a great many people who are not yet avowed separatists.

This sentiment appears to be particularly strong in the St. Jean Baptiste societies of Quebec province; indeed, Dr. Chaput has characterized his movement as "a sort of St. Jean Baptiste society."

Is it a serious threat to the Canadian Confederation? On this question opinions differ.

As I waited in Montreal's Windsor station to board the train to Quebec City, a young man distributed posters of the sort carried by pickets. They bore such slogans as "Chaput for Us," "Independence for Quebec."

Small Party

The welcoming party for the separatist leader was small, numbering perhaps 20 and consisting entirely, so far as I could see, of youths of college age. As a political demonstration it seemed rather pathetic; it might, in fact, have been taken for some student prank at the tag end of freshmen's week.

But consider these facts or serious judgments.

French newspapers are full of articles about separatism; reports of speeches about separatism; letters to the editor approving (or attacking) separatism.

A professor of political science told me that all his students were separatists, at least in their sympathies. When I suggested that the subject might have the same fascination as socialism in the 1930s, he demurred, suggesting that it stirred much deeper emotions.

"I think it could become very dangerous," said a senior civil servant. "It may be rejected by the elite of both races. But who knows what the people are thinking? They are all reading Dr. Chaput's book."

Have the "elite" rejected it? M. Rene Levesque, the Quebec minister of national resources, told me that it was now the inevitable subject of discussion at social gatherings. They bring it up, he said, in every parlor—doctors, lawyers, educated people.

"If something is not done," said M. Levesque, "the centennial observances may be a pretty grisly affair."

Equally disturbing, in its way, was the reaction of a Quebec editor who declined to discuss separatism with me. He had, he explained, his own ideas of what was behind it. But he did not yet know what his people thought. "After all," he concluded, apologetically, "I have to run a newspaper."

Lower Pension Age

I would like to support all you say in your editorial on Old Age Pensions in your issue of Dec. 26. I have been interested in and worked towards the betterment of these pensions for many years both in and outside the government.

England and the U.S.A. have Contributory Schemes. Why not Canada? Also "portable" pensions from business firms are common sense.

This does not mean that present pensioners would not benefit in the interim period. I would also like to suggest that the pensionable age for all should be 65—not 70.

In Seclusion

Further to your editorial page article on Handel, in the Dec. 23 issue, here is something that may interest you.

In conversations with some of the "oldsters" of Gossall, more than 35 years ago, I was informed that Handel shut himself in a summer house on the estate belonging to the Curzon family at Gossall, and did not emerge until his masterpiece was written.

These "oldsters" were fiercely positive on this, and later I was shown a summer house said to be the one where all this occurred.

Incidentally, Gossall is more of a hamlet than a village, or was then, stands on the road from Ashby-de-la-Zouch to Tamworth, and is not far from the only place where five counties meet. If my memory is not too rusty, Gossall is on the Tamworth side of the Five Counties Inn, which would place it in Warwickshire.

Man of Peace At War

AS 1961 ended a reputation crashed: Jawaharlal Nehru, caught between the demands of Nationalism (and, it seems probable, of Indian politics just before a general election) and the morality of international life, chose nationalism.

The Western world, which has grown used to Nehru in the role of lecturer on the merits of peaceful negotiation (only last month he pleaded before the United Nations General Assembly for a new approach to international affairs, "the approach of co-operation"), recoiled and sadly wrote him off as one more who has betrayed its hopes.

But although apologists found it difficult to excuse the Indian invasion of Goa, it can, perhaps, be more easily understood by a closer look at Nehru's recent record.

Jawaharlal Nehru is now in his fifteenth year of office as Prime Minister of Independent India, and the seventy-third year of his age. No democratic contemporary has reigned continuously so long. There are few secrets in his career.

Revolt Leader

He began as the leader of revolt against the British, romantic and passionate: he was imprisoned after the Amritsar riots of 1919, when 339 Indians were killed; altogether he spent thirteen years in jail under the Raj. With independence at last gained, he bent his passionate intelligence to the humdrum task of day-by-day administration.

His image has now aged with the years. Remote, unsmiling—unless there are children about, and they always win a smile—a little stooped, yet with abundant vitality, dressed in a plain grey Indian coat with a flower in the button-hole as the sole decoration—this is the man who, by the mystery of personal authority, has ruled 400 million people, beyond challenge, without one serious plot against his position.

He is the last of the generation by which India's freedom was won. The others have all died or retired to decorative positions. There is an astonishing gap between him and most other members of his Cabinet.

But he does not rely on his past record. He is an adroit, sensitive, unparalleled politician, who informs himself, with antennae that never fail, of just what the public desires or will stand and always presents his would-be rivals with an incarnation of the public will of India.

But he pays the price for his success of having to respond to public sentiment. He cannot stand still, and recently he has run into challenges. These may help to explain his action in Goa.

An obvious count against him is on foreign affairs; specifically on relations with China. Until 1959 he went out of his way to compliment the Chinese and to thrust friendship upon them. This was certainly the public will of India then; but now China has been revealed as a menace to Indian nationalism, and recent events have put Nehru in an ambiguous position.

Isolating India

The Chinese have occupied sections of India's northern border. They have refused negotiations on terms acceptable to India. By skillful diplomacy they are isolating India from all its neighbors. They have agreements with Burma and Nepal. Even more pointed, the Chinese have offered to negotiate with Pakistan about the demarcation of the frontier between themselves and the part of Kashmir which they have occupied.

In the long Kashmir dispute no country, however friendly to Pakistan, has ever offered de jure recognition of Pakistan-held Kashmir, implicit in this proposal. The ghost of India's uncompromising attitude on Kashmir in successive years in the Security Council may seem to be rising up and pointing at Nehru. Yet it is difficult to say that his case is definitively bad. He feared that a new arrangement of frontiers would set off a communal hysteria, and that it might spread over all north India.

Whether or not this fear is well founded, India must live with the situation which it created. And this is not the only situation. Close to the Chinese frontier are the Nagas, a spirited people in apparently unappeasable revolt against the central Government of India.

Nehru, face-to-face with danger, has taken timely action. His relations with two Great Powers have been put on a different footing.

To America, his attitude—encouraged by the forthcoming behavior of the Kennedy Administration and by the skill of two successive American Ambassadors to India—became less spiky. Simultaneously, Nehru set about cultivating Russia: the clash between Russia and China offered an opportunity.

Emotional Sting

But in spite of these adjustments of foreign policy, the emotional sting of alarm which gave rise to them did not easily subside. There is creeping unease. The old nationalism of the Congress Party has been bitterly offended. The country is dismayed that even with her large army she can do nothing to dislodge the Chinese from the remote mountains which they have occupied. A national mood may in such cases find outlet on easier prey. For the moment, Nehru has turned the mood on Portugal.

It was the spirit of the old national flame—in the West we have forgotten how genuinely this burns in him—but at the same time his decision was probably much influenced by his only close associate in the Cabinet and, as some think, his evil genius, Krishna Menon, the defence minister.

Nobody knows precisely what Menon stands for, but probably he prefers to see the Indian army in action against a decayed Imperial Power than against Communist China.

Some people also point out that in the general election next February Menon is defending a constituency in Bombay against bitter opposition. The rout of the Portuguese in nearby Goa will probably impress voters favorably. (London Observer Service)

REPORTING

OTTAWA—With Prime Minister Diefenbaker's assurance that there was no showdown between him and Finance Minister Fleming last week, we are still left wondering what really happened. Perhaps events went like this:

SCENE I—The PM's office, with PM seated behind desk. A discreet knock is heard, and the green baize door opens. Enter Donald Fleming.

PM: Ah, Donald, there you are. Good of you to drop over. Sit down, my boy, sit down.

(Fleming sits, looking inquiringly at PM.)
PM: Donald, I've been thinking about your future. And also your health—you've put in four years working very long hours. And I appreciate it, believe me, Donald. But I've been wondering if perhaps a less onerous portfolio... or perhaps Washington.

FLEMING: I appreciate your solicitude, chief, but it so happens that I'm in very good health. You should see me do pushups. And there really isn't any other job I'd rather have.

PM (aside): Confound this fellow—he mucked up the Coyne affair, he got us in hot water with Macmillan and with a lot of our fellow Canadian voters, and he's got the country wallowing in deficits—he's got to go.

FLEMING: Besides, chief, I couldn't leave now. These are critical times. Confidence is everything. In the financial world they'd think I was quitting—or worse, being sacked—because things are so bad. You ask anyone down on Bay Street. Confidence is everything—and they've got confidence in me.

PM: Ah, yes, Donald, I know. You've done a magnificent job, truly magnificent, and I'm the first to admit that. It's only you I'm thinking about. (Aside) And the election—if he won't go, I can't afford to kick him out just yet.

FLEMING: Only this morning I learned I've been re-elected president of the OECD. Can't walk out on our international obligations.

PM (lambly): Well, I had thought...

FLEMING (dryly): Yes, I know. I read the papers.

PM: Oh, I had nothing to do with those reports. You know what newspapermen are. Speculation. Irresponsible speculation.

FLEMING: You didn't deny them.

PM: Of course not. Best to ignore things like that. You only dignify them if you deny them.

FLEMING: Well, chief, it's good to clear up this point. I admit I was wondering...

But you can count on me. I won't quit as finance minister till they carry me out.

PM (taken aback, gulps, pauses): Thank you, Donald. That's what I was hoping you'd say. We're face to face with the enemy; we have to close ranks. There's an old army saying, Donald. Goodness; we've been talking for 90 minutes—the reporters will be thinking and writing all sorts of things.

SCENE II: The Palais railway station in Quebec City. Enter PM and travelling troupe of cabinet ministers en route to the Citadel for swearing-in ceremony of new mines minister because new minister lives in Quebec and it is easier to go to Quebec than for him to go to Ottawa. Guatemala Aided Cuban Invasion GUATEMALA CITY (AP)—President Miguel Ydigoras has acknowledged for the first time that Guatemala aided counter-revolutionaries who tried to overthrow Cuban Premier Castro last April.

In a New Year's message to the nation by radio and TV Sunday night, he sharply criticized those who called the abortive April invasion a debacle, saying it frightened Castro so much "that his war-like activities outside Cuba ceased since that date."

President Kennedy still has the responsibility of a sequel.

He did not elaborate but gave the idea that he was talking about something possibly to come from a meeting of hemisphere foreign ministers in Uruguay later this month.

As to the April invasion, he said "we encouraged thousands of exiled Cubans to fight to regain their own homeland instead of lamenting their ill-fortune."

"This is the first time my government has spoken of training armed Cuban contingents of sound anti-Castro faith in Guatemala. We reached an understanding with exiled Cuban leaders and they entered into arrangements with a friendly government able to give arms and sustain training and a military campaign."

He also said the Guatemalan government maintained the reserve which is proper in such cases but North Americans became "hysterical, as happens to them when they suffer a setback" and "their noisy press and the Gringo pro-Communists" stirred things up and created an atmosphere of "defeatism and debacle."

Uprising By People Not Fiaured

WASHINGTON (AP)—Allen W. Dulles says Washington officials did not expect an uprising by the Cuban people during last April's unsuccessful invasion aimed at toppling the Fidel Castro regime.

Dulles, who retired recently as director of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, said Sunday in a recorded radio and TV program:

"There is quite a popular misapprehension that it was felt there would be a spontaneous uprising. We have never contemplated that. In the days of the war I worked a great deal with the French underground. The last thing we wanted was spontaneous uprisings, to be slaughtered by the Nazi troops. In the same way we were not looking for a spontaneous uprising, but for other developments."

Biggest bargain here is the gasoline

You don't buy gasoline off the shelves in your supermarket, but if you did you'd find Esso one of the cheapest items.

Motorists throughout B.C. buy Esso gasoline for an average price of only 6 1/2 cents a pound. Compared with other commodities in everyday use that's a real bargain.* Of the 6 1/2 cents paid per pound for Esso gasoline, two cents is for federal and provincial taxes that provide such things as social services and new highways. To help bring you this bargain, Imperial Oil is searching for oil in northern B.C. ...drilling wells which will bring B.C. oil to B.C. customers ... built a modern refinery near Vancouver, new pipe lines, modern marketing facilities. And yet Imperial receives less on the average for the Esso gasoline it sells today than it did ten years ago... and Esso gasoline today is much more powerful than ten years ago.

What's in a Picture?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—How many men do you know in the $100,000-and-over bracket who wear $14.95 wrist watches?

Unless you have a much broader acquaintance than mine, you count them on one finger or less. But, according to the Caricaturists' Society of America, this is the price that the average American with a six-figure income pays for his timepiece.

The society currently is sponsoring a campaign to change the traditional manner in which the well-to-do, in this country are depicted in cartoons.

A typical caricature, it said, presents the wealthy American as "a gaudy fashion plate—complete with huge diamond stickpin, monogrammed silk shirt, custom suit, alligator leather shoes, diamond-studded gold watch, vicuña coat and big black cigar."

I don't wish to quarrel with the society, which should know its business, but it seems to me that this description more closely fits a typical caricature of a political boss.

It has been my observation that caricatures of a rich man almost always show him wearing a vest festooned with dollar signs.

At any rate, the society feels that the cartoonish image of the wealthy American is a "dangerous distortion," resembling the one used in the Communist press.

Its aim is to persuade U.S. cartoonists to picture the wealthy American in a more "realistic" image by toning down his wardrobe and haberdashery.

Toward this end, the society has put out a model caricature based on "the true appearance of the well-to-do American." It said it was qualified to do this because its members had "sketched hundreds of men in the $100,000-and-over income bracket."

The caricature shows a square-jawed individual striding purposefully forward, briefcase at the ready. He is wearing a $100 ready-made suit, a $15 hat, a $6.50 shirt, a $30 a pair of shoes and a $10 pair of gloves.

He is smoking a $12 pipe and is glancing at a $14.95 watch on his wrist. The price of the briefcase was not listed.

I agree that the society's caricature may be a truer delineation of today's well-heeled citizen than was the traditional version. But I find it hard to believe that the typical $100,000-a-year man wears a $14.95 watch.

I know several men who paid less than $15 for watches, and none of them makes more than $99,999.

Soccer Upset By Canadians

VANCOUVER—Vancouver Canadians moved into the semifinal of the Anderson Cup soccer competition by upsetting Columbus, 2-1, before a crowd of close to 3,000 Pacific Coast League fans Sunday afternoon.

All the goals came in the first half as Canadians took advantage of defensive errors to gain the lead then defended desperately as Columbus put on tremendous pressure through most of the second half.

Inside right Bob Babcock, Canada's most dangerous forward, scored both goals for the winners, sandwiching a fine solo effort by Normie McLeod for Columbus.

Canadians now meet Vancouver Firefighters in the semifinal with the winner meeting Victoria United in the cup final.

Columbus, playing without starry fullback Frank Sealy and high-scoring centre-forward Fred Bundschicks had many chances to score, particularly in the second half, but a fine display by goalie Hans Lee kept them out.

In regular PCSL play Saturday, veteran all-star Gogie Stewart, the subject of a recent transfer hassle, came back to haunt his old teammates.

Stewart, whose transfer from Westminster Royals to North Shore Cs in December is still under protest, played his first game against the Royals and scored two goals in North Shore's 5-1 runaway victory.

Bob Smith also scored two for North Shore and Bill Abbott added the other.

Columbus, playing without starry fullback Frank Sealy and high-scoring centre-forward Fred Bundschicks had many chances to score, particularly in the second half, but a fine display by goalie Hans Lee kept them out.

In the series of back-to-back games, every team except first-place Montreal demonstrated it could win just as easily as lose to its opponent.

The Canadiens tied the fourth-place Chicago Black Hawks 4-4 in Montreal Saturday and lost 2-0 in Chicago Monday as Hawks' goalie Glenn Hall turned in one of the weekend's most spectacular performances.

Detroit's Gordie Howe, the NHL's top all-time point scorer, got three goals when the Red Wings defeated Toronto 4-2 Sunday in the second of their weekend encounters. The Maple Leafs had won 6-4 Saturday.

In the other set the last-place Boston Bruins went on a spree Sunday to batter New York Rangers 7-4 and reverted to normal Monday as they lost 4-2.

Hall's sparkling 32-save performance plus the quick thinking of Stan Mikita broke Chicago's string of four straight on four straight ties Monday.

Hall, a 30-year-old veteran who has never missed an NHL game since he joined the league, was brilliant throughout as he chalked up his fourth shutout of the season, tying Detroit's Terry Sawchuk for league shutout leadership.

Mikita whacked at a puck that had bounced high in the air and deflected it into the Montreal net for the goal Chicago needed to win. Then he left a neat drop pass for Ken Wharram to slam into the net from 15 feet out to clinch the game.

Mikita also had a hand in two of his team's goals Saturday in Montreal, but the hero was big Al McDonald, who scored twice.

Howe's one-man uprising included that NHL rarity, a penalty shot, awarded to Detroit when Bobby Baun of Toronto fell on the puck in his goal crease.

Howe's three goals won the game and Vic Stasiuk put it out of reach.

In Boston Monday, New York defenseman Irv Spencer came up with his first goal of the season to win the game for the Rangers.

Cats Connect In Cup Event

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—Canada's touring Port Arthur Bearcats defeated the Brno Red Star hockey team 3-0 in Aheame Trophy play here Monday.

Wally Maxwell, Ron Hudson and Pete Johnston scored the Port Arthur goals.

Bearcats were snowed under by the weather and by a fast Lekand team Saturday night as they lost their first game in eight starts by a 6-2 score. Maxwell scored both goals for the Canadians.

Late in the Saturday game, snow started falling on the outdoor rink and handicapped the Cats.

FIVE DOWNS IN SEQUENCE ...

Refs Generous With Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—The play-by-play of Sunday's Green Bay New York National Football League title game indicated the officials permitted the Packers five downs during one sequence in the third quarter.

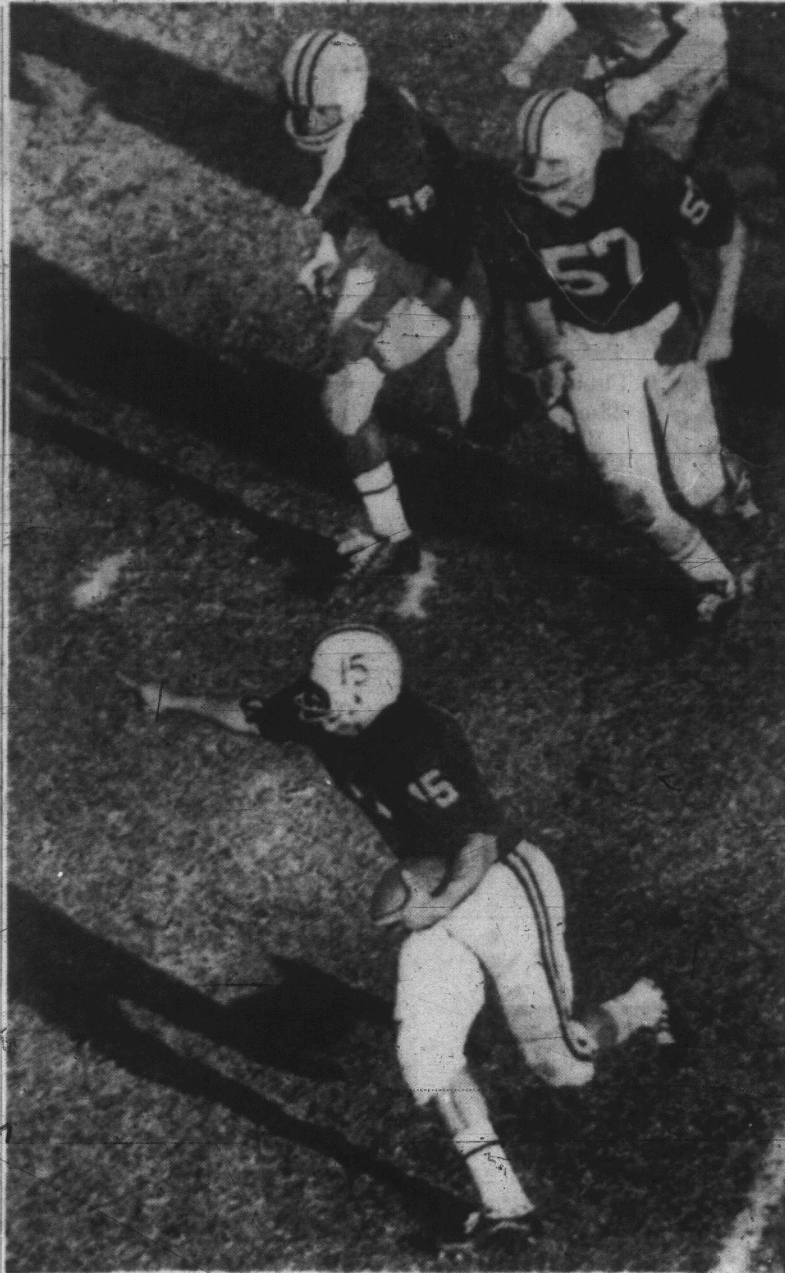

There were several moments of wild confusion when Packer quarterback Bart Starr ran from the Packers' 37 to the Giants' 40 on a keeper play and fumbled. Jimmy Patton of New York and several other players touched the ball before it went out of bounds.

The officials ruled they had whistled the ball dead before Starr fumbled. However, they also had called a penalty against the Packers for back field in motion.

When the officials returned the ball, they made a mistake and marked off a two-yard penalty instead of five yards. Apparently the sticks had been moved after the fumble and were not returned to the same position.

The ball was moved from the 37 to the 35. Then Green Bay ran three more plays—

'LET'S HIT THE FREEWAY!'

You need a keen sense of direction, they say, to make your way in California and Sandy Stephens, Minnesota's All-American quarterback, obviously has it. Here he points the way for his blockers, Bobby Bell, left, and Bob Frisbee, on an end sweep. Stephens was a faultless leader for Minnesota in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day, steering the Gophers to a 21-3 victory over UCLA before 98,000. (AP-Wirephoto.)

Scouts Shun Stephens But He Gets Job Done

Times News Services

Pro scouts say Minnesota's Sandy Stephens won't do. Those scouts are in for a long argument from 98,214 Rose Bowl fans who saw the talented 20-year-old quarterback do everything but lead the band-in a convincing 21-3 victory over UCLA at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day.

Stephens was the unanimous choice for "player of the game" and his performance, seen by millions of others over national television, was such that he also wound up player of the day.

The second distinction takes in quite a bit of territory inasmuch as three other quarterbacks also gave fine accounts of themselves in different bowl games.

ALABAMA UNBEATEN

Pat Trammell led Alabama's national champions to a 10-3 victory over Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, Mike Cotten sparked Texas to a 12-7 upset over Mississippi in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, and Jimmy Field was the standout in Louisiana State's 25-7 win over Colorado in Miami's Orange Bowl.

Stephens overshadowed them all.

The rap against him, among the majority of professional scouts, anyway, is that his arm isn't strong enough to make him the kind of dependable passer a front-line quarterback in the pro ranks should be.

Maybe so, but that certainly wasn't apparent in the Rose Bowl.

The slick 215-pound All-American from Uniontown, Pa., batted 1,000 with his passes in the first half, hitting 5-for-5. He wound up completing 7 of 11 for 75 yards.

He gained 46 yards rushing, scored Minnesota's final TD in the fourth period from the two-yard line and, just to keep his foot in, averaged 40.6 yards on three punts. Stephens' one-man show was too much for the outclassed Uclans, who scored their only points on a 28-yard field goal by halfback Bobby Smith in the opening period.

The victory enabled Minnesota to atone for its 17-7 loss to Washington in the 1961 Rose Bowl game.

The post-season contest among college teams opened Saturday with five games.

Sparked by the performance of quarterback Galen Hall, Penn State bounced back from the short end of a 9-0 score to hand favored Georgia Tech a 30-15 beating in the Gator Bowl.

In the East-West Shrine clash, the West—picked to lose—romped to a 21-8 win at San Francisco.

Villanova's rock-hard defense bottled up Wichita and paved the way for a 17-9 Villanova victory in the Sun Bowl at El Paso.

The South came from behind to gain a 9-7 victory over North in the Blue-Grey contest at Montgomery, Ala., and the Major College All-Stars chalked up a 31-0 win over the Small College all-stars in the All-America Bowl at Tuscon, Ariz.

PSYCHOLOGICAL BUTTERFLY BARRIER BROKEN

Mary Betters Mark

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mary Stewart, a 16-year-old, 98-pound water speedster, established a world record of 58.8 seconds for the women's 100-yard butterfly Sunday at the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association's time trials here.

However, registrar J. T. Kelly of the association says the mark which betters that of 1.00.3 set by Nancy Ramey of Seattle April 15, 1960, likely won't be recognized.

Kelly said world records are only accepted if set in approved 55-yard or 50-metre pools.

Miss Stewart, selected Canada's female athlete of the year last week, turned in her performance in the 20-yard Vancouver CYO pool.

Kelly said the one-minute, 100 yards butterfly has long been a psychological barrier for women swimmers, like the four-minute mile was for male runners. Many have been striving to beat the minute mark.

Miss Stewart in 1961 twice broke the world-record for the 110-yard butterfly.

Experience, Desire, And a Jeep Driver ...

Packers Rout Giant 37-0 In Title Game

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Coach Vince Lombardi and his Green Bay Packers agreed unanimously that experience and desire hoisted the Packers to their lop-sided 37-0 victory over New York Giants in Sunday's National Football League title game.

"We didn't do anything special, but we were the greatest team in the league today," Lombardi said in the noisy Packer dressing room.

He added that size of the score was bigger than he expected.

"I don't know what was wrong with the Giants," Lombardi said.

Paul Hornung, an army jeep driver on leave, set a playoff scoring record with 19 points as Green Bay won its seventh league title.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

Voted the most valuable player in the league, Hornung smashed home for a six-yard touchdown, added four extra points and kicked three field goals of 17, 22 and 19 yards before 39,029 delirious fans who immediately started a wild New Year's Eve celebration in "Title Town, U.S.A."

Bart Starr, coach Vince Lombardi's fine but unused quarterback, threw three touchdown passes in the rout as the Packer line manhandled the Giants on offense and completely bottled up New York's attack.

End Ron Kramer caught two of Starr's TD passes of 14 and 13 yards and Boyd Dowler, another army man on leave, nabbed the other for a 13-yard TD play.

HORNUNG'S DAY

This frosty day belonged to Hornung, former golden boy quarterback at Notre Dame who became a halfback at Green Bay under coach Lombardi.

While Hornung galloped and Starr hit his targets, the alert defenders intercepted four of Y. A. Tittle's passes. The only Giant threat came late in the second quarter when, trailing 21-0, Bob Gaiters' six-yard fourth down pass intended for Kyle Rote fell incomplete in the end zone.

The smashing victory by the Packers, who had been favored at slim odds of 3 to 1, was worth $5,195.44 to each Green Bay player. Each losing Giant collected $3,339.99 from the huge money pool, including $315,000 of the $615,000 paid for the network radio and TV rights. The total receipts were $713,792. The other $300,000 from TV went to the player benefit fund.

SEVENTH TITLE

Hornung's superior effort smashed the record of 18 points set by Cleveland's Otto Graham in 1954 against Detroit Lions.

The Packers' seventh title tied Chicago Bears' record. It was their first since 1944 when they also beat the Giants in New York's Polo Grounds. It was the Giants' ninth defeat in 12 title games.

This was the most lopsided shutout in a title game since Chicago Bears ran up that unbelievable 73-0 score on Washington in 1940. The next closest was the 27-0 score by Green Bay over New York in 1939.

BETTER TEAM

"We have no alibis," said coach Allie Sherman of the beaten Eastern Conference champions. "This was a much better Packer team than we played in two earlier games."

Green Bay won both games 20-17 in the exhibition season and Dec. 3 in the regular league schedule.

Hornung gained 89 yards on 20 carries, by far the best effort on this difficult surface. He also passed twice but did not complete either toss. Starr hit his receivers with 10 of 17 for 164 yards and three touchdowns. He had none intercepted.

For the Giants, who made only 31 yards rushing and 89 passing for a total of 130 yards to the Packers' net of 345 yards, the best carrier was Alex Webster. With 19 yards, Tittle completed only six of 20 passes for 65 yards and had four intercepted. Charlie Conery hit with four of eight and Bob Gaiters' lone pass failed.

When the officials returned the ball, they made a mistake and marked off a two-yard penalty instead of five yards. Apparently the sticks had been moved after the fumble and were not returned to the same position.

The ball was moved from the 37 to the 35. Then Green Bay ran three more plays—

Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor running and Starr passing incomplete—before Boyd Dowler punted.

"The play was nullified by the officials," explained Jim Kensil, league public relations man. "However, the play-by-play indicated there probably was a fifth down."

In any event, the Packers didn't score on that sequence.

Goalie Sparkles For Junior Cats

Jacques Plante was occupied with National Hockey League chores at Chicago, but the starry goaltender of Montreal Canadiens may have rated an assist at Memorial Arena Monday afternoon.

When the Canadiens held their pre-season training camp in Victoria last September, Plante took time out one day to hold a clinic for aspiring young netminders in Greater Victoria Minor Hockey Association.

Among the pupils was Barrie Richardson, and the lessons may be the reason young Barrie has improved rapidly in the past few months.

Richardson was a starry performer at Memorial Arena on Monday, covering angles and anticipating moves like a pro as he sparked Victoria Cougars to a whisker-thin 7-6 junior hockey victory over Vancouver's PNE Indians.

Playing before a disappointing crowd of about 300 fans, Barrie made a total of 45 saves in the exhibition tussle, 19 in the final period.

Steve Parks and Gray Zilkie each scored twice for Cougars and Bob Fisher, Bob Anderson and Holness counted once.

Tide Steps Into '62 With Bright Outlook

By DOUG PEDEN

The big test is still to come, but Victoria's Crimson Tide has stepped into 1962 with an optimistic outlook.

Accustomed to little but disappointment in the annual competition for the McKee Cup during recent seasons, the city's rugby representatives are only one game away from seizing the historic silverware.

They marched into the final round of the four-team knockout series in convincing style at Macdonald Park Saturday, slaying a 24-6 triumph over North and West Vancouver Reps.

Barring the Tide's way to a cup victory will be either Vancouver or University of British Columbia, due to meet in the other semifinal and both rated stronger than Northwest.

NO EASY MARK

However, it's a cinch that nobody is going to figure that the Victorians will be an easy mark after their Saturday performance. They were decisive and determined. They tackled with more authority than any city side has shown in recent seasons. And they displayed the happy knack of being able to make their rivals pay for mistakes.

Although territorial exchanges were about even for the match, Victoria seldom flubbed a good opportunity to score and, when necessary, was able to buckle down to bruising defensive work.

Forced on the defensive for the opening 15 minutes, Victorians scored on three of the first four times they had possession in Northwest territory.

Murray MacAlpine, a big power-runner with speed who was a standout on right wing, forward Paul Beck and Jack Patrick went over for the first three tries. All were converted by Don Burgess, who continued his accurate footwork with a 30-yard penalty goal to make the score 18-3 at the half.

ALERT PLAY

Winger Bob Hutchison, alertly taking advantage of a cross kick by Maurice Preece, and MacAlpine, on another driving run, went for unconverted tries in the second half. Jerry Lorenz kicked the first of his two penalty goals at 25 minutes to bring the count to 10-3, a few minutes before Northwest's Tom Andrews was forced to leave the field with a shoulder injury.

His second successful boot came in the closing stages, making it 21-6 a minute before teammate Jack Hutchison was taken from the field with a mild concussion, leaving Northwest two men short the final three minutes.

Even if Andrews had remained it was doubtful that the mainlanders had enough guns to threaten coach Harry Turner's charges. With a fine fullback in Mike Judd and great runner in Lorenz, the mainlanders were weakest in the backfield, often losing ground through indecisive running and poor ball-handling.

Victoria forwards held about even in the loose, had the upper hand all the way in tight scrums and followed the ball more alertly than did their rivals.

Continually sent away quickly by the accurate passes of former Scottish scrum-half Pat McLachlan, the Tide backs ran into some early trouble through a tendency to hold the ball too long and cross-field running. But they improved as the game progressed and were always dangerous.

Over the route it was probably the superiority of the Victoria backfield, that made the biggest difference.

City selectors are expected to make two or three changes before the next game, but even the Tide of Saturday promises to make it an interesting final.

'SPIEL WINNERS

There was a nautical note in Saturday's prize-giving ceremonies that wound up the first annual Christmas bonspiel at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Two rinks from HMCS Dockyard and one from HMCS Naden picked up the three trophies at stake in the smooth-sailing curling festival.

Bill Watson piloted his Dockyard quartet to a triumph in the 'spiel's main event, scoring a 14-8 win in the final against the Joe Iannarelli rink, which was skipped by Gary Leibel.

Scotty Russell and his Navy crew came home in front in the second event, besting the Harold Mattern rink in the final.

Jack Moir made it two victories for Dockyard curlers as he downed John Tucker in the final of the third event.

Curling with Watson were Bob Eches, third, Pete Bishop, second, and Al Travis, lead. Russell was supported by

Sailors Collect Second Victory

Navy chalked up its second victory of the Esquimalt and District Hockey League season Monday, clipping Army 5-1 in an exhibition clash at Esquimalt Sports Centre.

The Sailors will be tackling the loop's top club, Victoria College Vikings, when league action resumes with two games Friday night.

Opening the twin bill at 7:45 will be a battle between Army and Pontiac Chiefs, who are currently deadlocked in second place, two points behind Vikings.

STUDEBAKER-PACKARD PLANT HIT BY STRIKE

SOUTH BEND, IN. (AP)—The United Auto Workers' Union called its members out on strike at Studebaker-Packard Corporation early today after extended weekend sessions set up by mediators had failed to bring company and union together.

Issues in dispute included wash-up time, shift premiums, vacation computation, representation and management rights, a union spokesman said.

Federal and state conciliators brought company and union spokesmen together Sunday and Monday in an attempt to find a basis for heading off the strike. The final session broke up Monday night about two hours before the strike deadline.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Industrials Ahead In Toronto Trading

Toronto stock market started off the new year with industrials ahead in moderate trading.

Gains were few and most were fractional, with steel, liquors and gas and associated issues leading the way.

Steel Company of Canada advanced 1 1/2, while Atlas Steel was up 1/2. Canadian Breweries and Walker-Goodman both were ahead 1/2.

Alberta Gas Trunk and Alberta Natural Gas also had gains, as did B.A. Oil. Imperial Oil was up 1/2.

The New York market backed away from an early rise and industrials were off as 1962 trading got under way.

AT-TORONTO base metals were held higher by Consolidated Mining and Smelting's 1/2 point advance and International Nickel's 1/2 gain. Falconbridge lost 1/2 and Noranda 1/2.

In the speculative market, Northgate was up 64 cents at $2.00, while Lake Duluth dropped 10 cents at $5.95.

Western oils suffered from losses of 1/2 to Dome and Great Plains Development. Home B and Pacific Petroleum were ahead 1/2.

AT-NEW-YORK among Canadian stocks Dome Mines gained 1/2, Canadian Pacific 1/2 and Distillers Seagrams 1/2. McIntyre Porcupine lost 1/2 and Aluminium Ltd., Granby Mining and International Nickel 1/2.

Canadian Gainers on the American Exchange included Scurry Rainbow Oil and Brazilian Traction, each 1/2, Canadian Marconi 1/2 and Molybdenite, Preston and Sapphire Petroleum 1/2.

AT-MONTREAL prices continued to rise in moderate trading on the stock exchange today.

Stelco, up 1 1/2 at 89 and General Dynamics, up 2 1/2 at 30 1/2, led the advance.

Papers were the only sector to decline. Price dropped 1/2 to 54 1/2 and Abitibi fell 1/2 to 39 1/2.

AT-LONDON stock prices started the new year in fine style with a steady demand for industrials pushing prices higher. Many leading issues improved, and motors and aircraft went ahead. Electrical shares were higher.

Gilt-edged securities improved while dollar stocks reflected Friday's irregularity on Wall Street.

Feature of mining markets was the firmness of tin shares on London and eastern buying. Coppers eased but there was little interest in golds.

Oils were dull.

AT-VANCOUVER trading was dull, volume light with

Mr. Freight Rates Steps Down Today

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's Mr. Freight Rates, Leonard J. Knowles, retires today from the Board of Transport Commissioners which regulates the country's $1,500,000-a-year railway business.

As dean of the freight rate men, Leonard Knowles returns to private life after 44 years in the railway business and 10 years with the transport board.

He is acknowledged in the transport industry as one of the country's experts in freight rates.

For more than 30 years he has played a key role in setting freight rates on the railways — thus influencing the cost of just about everything in the country from toys to timber.

His place on the six-man board will be filled by Alfred S. Kirk, 63, the board's traffic director since 1939.

Mr. Knowles' steps down from the high bench of the transport board — which on many matters has the power and privileges of a legal tribunal — on his 75th birthday.

Art Market Clips Eagle

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Art Market won the $28,250 San Gabriel Handicap Monday at Santa Anita in a blanket finish with the pace-setting Grey Eagle beaten by only a whisker and the Axe II a head back.

The winner's time for the mile and one-eighth was 1:48 2-5.

Ismael Valenzuela had Art Market within striking distance all the way down the backstretch and the horse came up with a fine burst of speed near the finish line to nip Grey Eagle, who had surrendered the lead briefly at the head of the stretch to the Axe II, then came on again. Onk finished fourth and never was in real contention.

EDDIE EDGED AT ADELAIDE

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP) — Pat Glennon, Australia's ace jockey, won the International Invitation Stakes Monday by a neck as Kelvin Valley beat Goglio and America's Eddie Arcaro in a rousing finish at Morphettville race course.

Bomba, ridden by Britain's Lester Piggott, was third, and Harcourt with Australia's Arthur May up was fourth in the field of 14 runners.

Kelvin Valley, a 7-1 shot, was timed in 1:37 1-5 for the mile.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. A few weeks ago I was at a bingo game. In one of the games four numbers were called, down the N's. What I would like to know is what are the odds of a person getting a bingo in the first four numbers called? S. D.

A. Presumably there are only four ways in which this could be done: vertically, horizontally, or either of the two diagonal ways, utilizing the centre free square. In this case, a player has 16 chances out of 4,794,273 of getting a bingo in the first four numbers called.

Q. What is "Discovery Day"? Who discovered what, and when? O.M.

A. In Canada, "Discovery Day" is celebrated on June 24. It is the anniversary of John Cabot's landing on the North American coast, either in Newfoundland, southern Labrador or Cape Breton Island, in 1497.

NEW YEAR'S EVE ON SUNDAY DIDN'T MATTER

A Bangup Night... As Usual

Sunday start for New Year's Eve didn't worry Victorians who just waited until midnight before taking the lid off.

Revelers flocked to nearly every night spot in the city which mostly opened after 10 p.m.

Licences to serve liquor were issued for 1201 a.m. on but the attorney-general's department had previously indicated a blind eye would be turned to parties jumping the gun after 10 p.m.

A survey of bigger clubs showed that few took advantage of this. The majority of pre-midnight drinking was at home.

City police said no impaired driving charges were laid, although car keys were taken from four or five over-enthusiastic tipplers.

The Empress Hotel cancelled its usual dance but 300 people crowded into the Crystal Garden to watch some original New Year's entertainment along with the dance.

At the stroke of midnight swimmer James McCague Jr. dived into the pool from the high board dressed as old 1961 and "disappeared."

He was followed by 18-year-old Patricia Reid who, costumed as the new year, dived in and swam under water to a tethered 1962 sign and popped to the surface with it.

Themes varying from spring to Hawaiian were featured at dances throughout Greater Victoria.

"I can't think of a single public hall that didn't have a dance," said a police official.

The lack of "scoundrels" in the city jail was explained in part by busy taxi companies.

Extra drivers were used by nearly all companies and business was up over previous years.

The peak period was between 3 and 4 a.m. Monday when all cabs were busy for a short period.

Cab company spokesmen reported a great number of calls to private residences. House parties in general appeared to have been larger and went on longer than in previous years.

Fire early today swept through the midships section of the 6,000-ton British freighter King David at Nanaimo, causing an estimated $30,000 damage and sending third mate, Tom Patch, 21, of Manchester, England, to hospital for treatment of first degree burns, asphyxiation and shock.

MORE SUN, MORE RAIN DURING 1961

Victorians enjoyed more than the average amount of sunshine in 1961, but at the same time were victims of a higher than normal precipitation, the weather office reported today.

A total of 2,255 hours, 42 minutes saw the sun beating down on the garden city, 49 hours, 12 minutes more than the average yearly total of 2,206 hours, 30 minutes.

Between the spells of sunshine were 28.91 inches of precipitation, 1.54 inches more than the 27.37 average but far below the record high of 39.36 inches in 1887. The lowest amount of precipitation ever received in Victoria was 16.01 inches in 1952.

TEN TO ONE
This total precipitation was composed of 28.38 inches of rain, and 5.3 inches of snow. Ten inches of snow is equivalent to one inch of water.

The normal amount of snow falling on Victoria is 11.6 inches, making 1961 a mild year. The year's rainfall was midway between the 1881 high of 37.99 inches and the 1952 low of 14.59 inches.

Local Drivers Set Good Record

Police in Greater Victoria were breathing a little more easily today as the Christmas-New Year holiday season drew to a close without drivers providing any major headaches.

There was only one traffic accident involving serious injury on the morning of New Year's Day.

Despite the holiday spirit and even patches of fog on New Year's Eve it was a remarkably accident-free holiday weekend.

No charges of impaired driving were laid in Greater Victoria and in fact no impaired driving charges have been laid in the city since Dec. 22.

"We took the keys away from a few drivers who had had too many but that's all," said deputy chief Harry Mercer of the city police.

"It was a very good weekend on the whole," he said.

The only person admitted to hospital from an accident was Mrs. Jenny Houston, 67, of 1464 Thurlow. She is said to be in fairly good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital today suffering a broken nose and rib.

Police said she was a passenger in a car driven west on Brooke by Gordon Thurlow of the same address which collided with a car driven north on Stannard by Ernest Todd, 508 Island Highway.

The accident happened shortly before 11 a.m. New Year's Day.

Fisherman Plucked From Frigid Water

A FORMER DEPUTY SUPER-INTENDENT at HMC Dockyard, Esquimalt, Capt. Stuart E. Paddon has been promoted to the rank of commodore, RCN headquarters announced today. He has been director-general of fighting equipment at Ottawa since June, 1961.

Carpenters Hear Cry For Help

Residents of the Dallas Road waterfront watched anxiously today as a B.C. Pilotage boat rescued a man whose boat overturned, while he was fishing near Brochie Ledge.

Sixty-one-year-old Thor Sollien, 3211 Richmond, spent about 20 minutes in the frigid waters off Holland Point before he was plucked out on the end of a boathook.

HEARD SHOUTS
His plight was first noticed by two carpenters atop scaffolding on a Dallas Road apartment building. They heard his shouts for help and called police.

Police in turn notified the pilotage authority which dispatched a boat from its berth at the east end of the Ogden Point docks.

The boat raced out alongside the Ogden Point breakwater, out of the dock entrance and headed for Holland Point.

STRONG CURRENT
According to eye-witnesses, Mr. Sollien's boat was first spotted near the Brochie Ledge buoy but by the time he was rescued a strong current had carried him about half a mile eastward.

While in the water some 400 yards off shore he clung to the bottom of his overturned boat. The whole operation was carried out in driving rain although the sea was calm.

Wrapped snugly in a blanket while dry clothes were fetched for him, Mr. Sollien looked none the worse for his chilling experience.

"I can't understand how it happened, I've worked in boats all my life," he said.

HIT DEADHEAD
Mr. Sollien, dockyard worker, said the probable reason was that his small outboard motor powered boat struck a floating deadhead.

His boat and motor were recovered intact but all his fishing tackle was lost.

"I'd been fishing all morning," he said, "and there was about a 20-pound salmon I'd caught that was lying in the bottom of the boat when I overturned. I lost it."

The sharp-eyed carpenters who sparked the rescue operation were brothers Claud Bugslag, 1022 Pemberton, and A. P. Bugslag, 1401 Oliver.

They were working on scaffolding at 412 Dallas, an apartment building.

"We heard these calls for help but couldn't think where they were coming from. Then we saw the upturned boat," said Claud.

$60 Stolen
Biggest haul in a series of burglaries during the weekend was $60 taken Monday night from the office of Individual Dry Cleaners, 226 Menzies.

A small quantity of cash was taken from a cigarette vending machine in the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Club on Wharf Street, New Year's Eve, while a dance was in progress in the building.

INBORN SPIRIT
The judge said the new mayor has the inborn spirit "of one who was born in the city and wishes to do it honor."

He said he got double enjoyment from the swearing-in ceremony, "because I look up to those who perform the serious duties of public office, and because Victoria is my birthplace."

To Ald. M. H. Mooney the judge said he was "quite convinced from past performance the office is deserved."

Mr. Justice Wootton spoke in turn to Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson and Ald. J. L. W. McLean.

"You are a man of God..."

Centennial Year Officially Launched By Flood of Light

By AB KENT
A flick of a switch, launched Victoria into its second hundred years and etched the ancient outlines of City Hall against the sky New Year's Eve.

Centennial floodlighting of the ornate front by retiring Mayor Percy Scarrath symbolically threw the torch of administration to newly-elected Mayor Dick Wilson, who, with new members of city council, was sworn to office today.

Declarations were made before Mr. Justice Wootton in Assize Court chambers as present members of council and administrators looked on.

"It is quite obvious to me that in this centennial year the name Wilson will be commensurate with the works of your forebears linked with the history of this community for so long a time," Mr. Justice Wootton said.

Mayor Wilson swore to be faithful to his duties, to be loyal to the Queen, and that he holds no interest in the city other than that allowable by law.

MEET MONDAY
First regular meeting of the council was set for Monday, at 2 p.m.

Mayor Wilson — using for the first time a gavel presented to him by Victoria Gyo Club — said he was "glad you are all experienced in council business because I will need your help for a while."

He expressed the hope members of the council would weld into a team to conduct the city's business.

He said he was aware that council is "concerned about the hours members have to spend on council business. I hope I can assist you there," he told them, and wished all a happy and prosperous New Year.

Ald. Arthur Dowell said he felt sure the new mayor would have the support of council.

On Monday the new mayor proclaimed 1962 the centennial year at a brief ceremony on the steps of city hall.

ALL INVITED
"We in Victoria want visitors to share with us and enjoy the great amenities here for gracious, cultured living and our celebration of this Victoria's centennial year, for which a special and outstanding program worthy of the occasion has been in course of preparation for the past two years by the city's special centennial committee," Mayor Wilson said.

"I extend far and wide a cordial invitation to come to our centennial celebration. Enjoy with us a most pleasant time and wonderful experiences..."

CAPT. BEAUMONT MADE DECISION ON 88TH BIRTHDAY

Choice Property Donated for Marine Park

People of British Columbia have received a Christmas present from Captain Ernest G. Beaumont of Discovery Island in the form of 38 acres of waterfront on South Pender Island.

The Bedwell Harbor property, including a sheltered harbor and shell beaches, faces south and east to South Pender wharf. It will be converted into a marine park.

Most people are accustomed to receiving presents on their birthdays, but it was on his 88th birthday, on Dec. 22, that Capt. Beaumont decided to give this property to the provincial government parks division. The papers were signed on Christmas Day.

CREAM OF PROPERTY
Capt. Beaumont described the Bedwell Harbor lot as the cream of his South Pender Island property.

"On Armistice Day, 1918, I got rather excited and bought over 500 acres of land. I have sold most of my Pender Island property, but kept the cream of it until the other day," he said.

Capt. Beaumont still owns waterfront acreage in Brown Harbor, but describes it as less suitable for a park.

GOOD MOORING
"Bedwell Harbor is the best mooring spot in the area," he said.

Last summer more than 350 boats, mostly American, visited the spot.

Capt. Beaumont recalled taking parties of Boy Scouts and cadets to the South Pender Island property for manoeuvres in his yacht, Discovery Isle, or its replacement Discovery Isle II.

"The boys loved the place," he said. "We gave them over 200 rounds of blank ammunition and they made a devil of a noise firing them off and running through the woods."

NEW MOORINGS
Capt. Beaumont wished to give more people the opportunity to enjoy the beaches and harbor. It is expected that moorings will be built in land on Fraser Lake, east of the harbor for visiting boats, Prince George, to the government, as a park. He bought Beaumont gave 380 acres of this land in 1912.

Let Little Geisha Dolls Ornament Your Home

By PENNY SAVER

Toying with the idea of adding a touch of the Orient to the decor in your home? Have you seen the lovely little geisha dolls that are displayed in a downtown store? If you haven't, make it a "must" next time you're down, they are really worth seeing.

Dressed in multi-colored silk and brocade kimono these little ladies emulate an air of sheer grace and beauty. Hair of each is done in a different style and they are all wearing different headgear. This portrays the Japanese theme each represents.

Dolls vary in price according to height. 12 inch ones are $7.98. And some smaller ones are $3.98. Really you'll love these superbly made ornaments.

Saw something else in the same shop that really struck me and that was musical lighters. Nothing is more surprising than to have someone offer you a light for your cigarette and to suddenly hear music.

Lighters come at two prices: 1½x1 inch are black with Japanese motif hand etched in gold and silver, they're $3.95 and really superb. Others are same size, silver-colored with a different hand-etched design in pale pastel, they are $4.95.

Also available to complement lighters are musical cigarette cases. Cases are made of brass-colored metal with blue simulated leather. They hold 12 to 14 standard size cigarettes and sell for a mere $5.95. Sound exciting?

All three musical gadgets play "Traumerei" in a tinkling delicate tone. Anyone would love to have any one of these, especially for evening use.

Curious? Can't wait to see them? Call me for the address. Penny, EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Consider Kindness—You Can't Really Give It Away

A few old thoughts for the new year.

Kindness is a hard thing to give away. It usually comes back to you.

It is so true that if you wave at the world it waves back at you twice as hard.

Real kindness is not given with a reward in mind. Therefore, it is perceptive and thoughtful.

How often have you been surprised, long after an act of kindness on your part, to find that the recipient has not forgotten and returns the favor in some way you could not possibly have imagined?

It is sad when we waste our life's energy in small and petty ways: in holding grudges, in jealousy, in sensitivity, in being envious, or irritable. Yet, being human, we all indulge in these emotions some times.

Such petty and negative emotions lead to poor health, to chronic fatigue, to wrinkles, to a dull personality and blind us to the great and exciting sweep of life.

Jeremy Taylor said, "If anger proceeds from a great cause, it turns to fury; if from a small cause, it is peevishness; and so it is always either terrible or ridiculous."

A big, keen anger may be right and good at times, but it soon burns itself out; it does not linger on as dying embers far into the night of life.

Small resentments do linger on and the owner of these often feeds them just enough, a lump of thought now and then, to keep them alive, sometimes for years and years.

How absurd! And how ridiculous we appear when we spend our time and energy fanning the sparks of a fire which would have died of its own accord had we forgotten it.

Lowman

For those who like their desserts not too sweet, this Cake 'n Fruit Custard will be the choice. Children will be intrigued by the way it comes out of the oven—with the layer of cake on top—especially if they watch you prepare it.

CAKE 'N FRUIT CUSTARD

One quarter-teaspoon salt, 2

egg whites, ¼ cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, 2 tins (5-oz.) strained apple sauce and apricots or strained orange-grapefruit dessert or strained bananas, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons melted butter, ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup flour, 1 cup milk.

Heat oven to 350 deg. F. (moderate). Add salt to egg whites; beat until moist peaks form when beater is raised. Gradually add ¼ cup sugar, beating until stiff. With the same beater, beat egg yolks with strained fruit, lemon juice and melted butter. Stir in ¼ cup sugar mixed with flour; add milk. Fold into beaten egg whites.

Pour into eight individual greased custard cups, filling to within ½ inch from top. Set in pan containing ½ inch hot water. Bake at 350 deg. F. for 55-60 minutes, or until firm on top and browned. Serve chilled or slightly warm. Makes eight servings.

Budget-Wise

Preparing the less expensive lamb cuts: Lamb's goodness is due in large part to its tenderness and to the flavor imparted by its fat. In some of the thriffter cuts, however, it is desirable to dispose of excess fat before and during cooking.

In the case of riblets, for example, which are so delicious when barbecued, it is suggested that excess fat be trimmed away before cooking and fat after browning, the drippings be poured off before sauce is added. Remembering to do this will make such inexpensive dishes so popular with families that the homemaker can save money on her budget often. Don't be afraid of fatter cuts. Just dispose of the fat and the resulting fare will be more than worth the effort required.

This week's pressing board winner for her fine suggestion is Miss Janet J. Else, Storm Lake, Iowa.

"Dear Eunice Farmer: When making machine buttonholes, in order to determine the size buttonhole you will need for a certain size button, make a sample of each size template you have on a DOUBLE STRIP of fabric. Label the size of each with ink and then cut open."

"Keep this sample strip in your sewing box for easy reference. This eliminates making several samples to check which size buttonhole template is best for the button you are using. I used the top wide hem of an old sheet and used black thread for the buttonholes."

Dear Mrs. J.R.: The reversible zippers have not been packaged for sale through retail outlets because the demand for this style zipper is not very great. I would suggest you ask your local department store to order one for you in the color and length you will need.

Fast Method For quick softening of butter put boiling water in a large bowl, empty it and place the warm bowl over the butter.

May Have to Order Reversible Zipper

"Dear Eunice Farmer: I have been making a reversible felt skirt and don't know where I can purchase a zipper for this type of skirt."

DEAR ABBY...

He's an Extremist!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: What do you think of a man who tells you he wants to go to jail? He says he is thinking up a way to get in. He isn't a violent man, but he is planning to throw a brick through a window, or talk back to an officer, or do something that he can get arrested for. He tells me he can't stand the noise around here. We do have six little ones. I can't tape their mouths shut but, if I can stand it, so can he.

He says he is fed up with me, married life and the children, and the only place for him is jail where nobody can bother him.

WORRIED: I've heard of men trying to break OUT of jail, but never INTO one. If your husband is joking—laugh. If he seems serious, call a doctor. He should have his head examined.

DEAR ABBY: Every year my husband's favorite aunt comes to visit us for about two weeks. She is very jolly and pleasant but she has one fault that bothers me. She keeps her suitcase locked and sews the key to her girdle. I don't know what she has that is so valuable, but certainly no one in the house would take anything. I think this is an insult to a hostess. How would you feel about a guest who locks everything up while visiting in your home?

HURT: We all have our little peculiarities. Security is hers. Overlook it.

Hot Salad

Left-over turkey stars as a hot baked salad. It is also quickly prepared. Dice and combine cooked turkey with a quarter to one-third as much diced celery, some chopped toasted almonds or peanuts, a dash of onion juice and lemon juice to add a bit of zip and moisten with salad dressing (half salad dressing and mayonnaise is a good combination too). Top with grated Cheddar cheese and a ring of crumpled potato chips. Bake at 350 to 375 degrees F. until thoroughly heated. Serve with a tossed salad.

Ballard-McLellan Vows Heard In Church of Our Lord Ceremony

Holly and white chrysanthemums decorated the Church of Our Lord when Bishop D. A. G. Rankin officiated at the marriage of Jane Marguerite Ballard and John Frederick (Jack) McLellan. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Ballard, 549 Agnes St. Groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McLellan, 4283 Gordon Head Road. The strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by organist J. Ingram Smith, greeted the bride as she entered the church on the arm of her father. Bridal gown of Blin and Blin wool in floor length, was styled on princess lines with an Italian neckline and lily point sleeves. Shoulder length organza veil misted from a half-circlet of twin gold bands, trimmed with miniature golden Hawaiian wood roses. Attractive bouquet was made up of the same flowers and bamboo leaves.

ATTENDANTS IN RED

The bride's sister, Mrs. W. Stanley Birch, came from Huntsville, Ont., to be matron of honor. Miss Marilyn McLellan, Ottawa, the groom's sister, was bridesmaid. They wore carnation red wool dresses, red velvet hair bandeaus touched with holly and carried bouquets of holly and small pine cones. Anthony Sayle was best man and ushering guests were Tom Ballard, brother of the bride, and Rod Palmer, Vancouver. Arthur Slane Fleming proposed the toast to the bride at a luncheon reception in Holyrood House. A miniature crystal basket of sweetheart roses topped the four-tier wedding cake that centred the head table. Red candles in silver candelabra, pine cones and boughs and red poinsettias completed decor. The honeymoon will be spent skiing at various centres in the interior. Both are members of the Victoria Sno-Birds Ski Club. As her going-away ensemble the new Mrs. McLellan chose a dress cut on princess lines in sparkling red with matching

Fiery Ottawa Mayor Wins Woman Of Year Award for a Fifth Time

OTTAWA (CP)—Charlotte Whitton, Ottawa's outspoken mayor who moves in an almost constant swirl of controversy, has been chosen Canada's woman of the year for a fifth time. The 65-year-old former social worker was selected by women's editors of Canadian daily newspapers in a poll by The Canadian Press.

She was previously named woman of the year in 1951-52, 53 while serving as the capital's first woman mayor, and again in 1960 when she returned to municipal politics. In choosing her for 1961, editors took note of her knack for enlivening the activities of city council. During the year she feuded regularly with the four male members of the board of control. At one meeting the board walked out in a dispute over slum-clearance plans. In October R. F. Walker, city Emergency Measures Organization chief, resigned, blaming "intolerable pressure" from the mayor. Miss Whitton promptly took over the job herself temporarily.

Mayor Whitton crashed front pages in November another way. She fell on the ice while throwing a rock at the opening of an Ottawa curling club. A photograph of the spectacular tumble appeared in many newspapers. Although the photographer caught her in a rather undignified pose, her comment on the picture was typical. "I like it," she said.

Mme. Georges Vanier, wife of the governor-general, was runner-up in the woman of the year voting. Among others mentioned was Mrs. Norman Alcock of Oakville, Ont., nominated because she has "four children and allowed her husband to give up a $20,000-a-year job so he could work for peace." Dr. Alcock, an engineer and nuclear physicist, is founder of the Peace Research Institute. Miss Whitton was also voted first in the public affairs category, with Judy La Marsh, Liberal member of parliament for Niagara Falls, second.

Winners in other categories: Literature and art—Diane Giguere, Montreal author. Music—Teresa Stratas, Toronto opera singer. Show business—Joan Fairfax, Toronto singer. Sport—Mary Stewart, Vancouver swimmer. Miss Stratas, a soprano with the Metropolitan Opera whose vivacity makes her a natural for some of opera's more flamboyant roles, will sing the title part in Madame Butterfly with the Canadian Opera Festival in the fall of 1962. She appeared in this role at the Vancouver Festival in 1960 and sang with Victoria's Symphony Orchestra at Butchart Gardens the same year.

RUNNERS-UP

Others mentioned in the show-business category were TV interviewer Joyce Davidson, formerly of Toronto and now working out of New York. Toronto actress Kate Reid and Toby Robins, and singers Juliette, formerly of Vancouver and now of Toronto, and Margaret Osborne of Halifax.

Mrs. M. V. Smith arrived from Calgary on Friday and will spend the next few days as the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gladys Smith in her home on St. Charles Street.

Mrs. Lewis M. Bartlett was hostess at her home at Smuggler's Cove, Ten Mile Point, when friends gathered there for a five-to-seven party last Saturday afternoon. Earlier in the week Mrs. Bartlett held a party for children in her neighborhood.

EDUCATION PROPOSED FOR BUYERS

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. Eleanor Brewer, national publicity chairman for the Canadian Association of Consumers, believes a course on buying should be introduced in high schools. Vast Australian Dust Bowl Grows

DARWIN (Reuters)—More than 80,000 square miles of Australia's drought-ridden Northern Territory are slowly becoming a vast dust bowl, broken only by scattered cattle bones and shells of crumbling houses.

Cattlemen have clung grimly to the scorched land for the last four years, helplessly watching the sun burn sparse vegetation into powder. Little rain has fallen since 1957.

Even water buffalo, for the first time since they were introduced from the lush Java paddy fields a century ago, are dying of thirst in the sub-tropical monsoonal north.

Further south, beyond the reach of the monsoon-borne rain, thousands of cattle have been killed by the drought. Managers of cattle stations, ranches are carefully tending their breeding stock, hoping to starve off complete ruin.

Delamere cattle station, one of the worst-hit areas, has lost 1,000 cattle—10 per cent of its total.

Some ranches already have left. John Nelson, the federal member of parliament for the Northern Territory, said it is the worst disaster since Australia was settled by Europeans.

COVERS BIG AREA
The dustbowl stretches from about 100 miles south of Darwin to the upper part of South Australia and across from the red deserts of Western Australia to Queensland.

The four years of drought is given officially as an average for the entire area.

In the northern reaches of the dustbowl, where the monsoon rains may penetrate, rain fell last spring. But in central Australia, some ranches have not seen rain for seven years.

Cattle in the centre of the dust bowl must walk up to 10 miles from their scattered forage to waterholes. Somewhere on the painful march between feed and water many fall.

Farther north, the Victoria River has partly dried up. Normally, it is a fast-flowing, tropical river.

As the drought continues, herds of kangaroos, wild donkeys and dingoes—Australian wild dogs—ravage the countryside.

Donkeys root out grass and leave only bare ground. The kangaroos eat voraciously and cattle, though starving, refuse to eat where the kangaroos have preceded them. Only the dingoes, finding it easy to pull down the weakened beasts, are fat.

West Samoa Defers Commonwealth Bid

AUCKLAND (AP)—West Samoa's joint heads of state announced at the first session of the Samoan Parliament today that the government feels the question of joining the Commonwealth should be deferred until independence becomes an established fact.

They said the government is grateful to New Zealand and other Commonwealth governments for agreeing to treat Western Samoa as if it is a Commonwealth member.

Such an interim arrangement will be of considerable benefit by allowing Samoa to maintain existing trade patterns while close examination is made of all issues involved in Commonwealth membership.

It will not seek immediate membership in the United Nations.

Western Samoa became the modern world's first independent Polynesian state Monday. Ceremonies at Apia, the capital of the island group in the South Pacific, ended New Zealand's 48-year administration of the German colony before the First World War.

With Prime Minister Keith Holyoake of New Zealand in attendance, New Zealand's flag was lowered in Apia and Western Samoa's new flag—a southern cross on a red and blue background—was raised.

The new nation has joint heads of state, Tupu A. Tanumase Meade and Maliloa Fa'anoa, and the government is headed by Premier Flame Mata'afa.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other "educational prizes"? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 50-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Steven Helmrich, age 9, of South Williamsport, Pa., for his question:

How Are Homing Pigeons Trained?

This, says Andy, is a very thoughtful question to come to the mind of a nine-year-old person. We all know that our astronauts need training. The acrobat who walks the dizzy high wire must practice for years and even the seal at the circus must be trained.

But many people think that a homing pigeon carries his messages with no training at all. And this is not so. The cheerful chimp has certain gifts from Mother Nature. He can learn to follow simple orders and carry them out without getting tired or upset. This is the gift which makes him a born astronaut. But he needs long and patient training to use his talents to make a successful trip around the globe. The homing pigeon has the gift of being able to find his way home from far away. But he must be trained to make the best of this useful talent.

The training of homing

Training Begins Early
In a modern pigeon loft, training begins soon after the young birds learn to fly. The trainer lets them out to see the world. The gifted youngsters fly around a bit and soon come home. After a few trips they know the neighborhood. Now the trainer takes them a few miles from home and lets them free. His eager young pupils circle around and then their wonderful homing instinct tells them which direction to take and off they fly home.

In the months that follow, the trainer takes them farther and farther from home. He begins to pick his most gifted birds—those that fly straightest and fastest. The best birds get tougher training. They are carried in special boxes 100 miles, 300 and 500 miles and then freed to find their way home. When each homer returns to his cosy loft his flying time is checked. It takes two or three years to train the gifted bird and at last he can fly in races with other homers and carry messages strapped to his back or leg.

The training of a homer is a matter of learning bit by bit, just as we learn our lessons. Each lesson gets a little harder and at last we find it

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The Kennedy clan beat out even the twist and the Peppermint Lounge in the Best Laughs of 1961. "Caroline is a nice kid, all right, but this is the last time I let her plan an invasion" uttered by comedian David Astor—showed which way the jokes were blowing.

Bob Hope, snaked another political figure into the gag sweepstakes when he said, "Nixon is campaigning for Governor—on the radio!"

When Paul Anka turned 20, Jack Denton said, "He's too young to vote and too old to be Attorney-General"—while comics were still telling that a voice heard above the din in a Washington cafe proclaimed: "If I'm old enough to be Attorney-General, I'm old enough to be served beer!"

Everybody who saw "Gideon" thought of it at the same time: "I know I'll like the play—I loved the Book!" At Downstairs at the Upstairs, we caught this one: "What's the last good thing that came out of a disarmament conference? Venus de Milo!"

For the collegians: "Old deans never die—they just lose their faculties." Sammy Kaye kidded Toots Shor about his dancing at Jackie Gleason's daughter Geraldine's wedding. Toots roared back: "Listen, did you ever try to dance to your music?"

Johnny Carson came into his own while Alan King came into his. "I've seen Alan 15 times and always enjoyed his joke," Carson said. "Sure, he has a Rolls-Royce. So did Capone, Dillinger and Legs Diamond." King had become the George Gobel said in his house he's the captain of the ship—"except how did I know I was going to marry an Admiral?"

Bobby Morse got one of the laughs of any year when he turned to sexy secretary Virginia Martin, entering in a low-cut dress—while he's pretending to be trying to succeed in business—and absent-mindedly says: "SIR?"

THE WEEKEND WINDUP

Anthony Quinn said he's added a Van Gogh to his collection... Glen Ford's hunk of the hit "Pocketful of Miracles"—as star and co-producer—will reach a million... David Susskind taped a TVer on stripping with Georgia Sothorn, Sherry Britton and Blaze Starr—but all they do is talk... Robt Mitchum revealed at the Forum he'll direct his son in a western... Jayne Mansfield ignored a fever during her Grossinger visit and went skiing (with Kim Novak's one-time instructor Tony Kastner).

Pamela Franklin, the young English girl in "The Innocents," isn't allowed to see the film—it has a restricted rating in England—and she's too young... Ex-disc jockey Alan Freed's opening a twist parlor in Miami Beach.

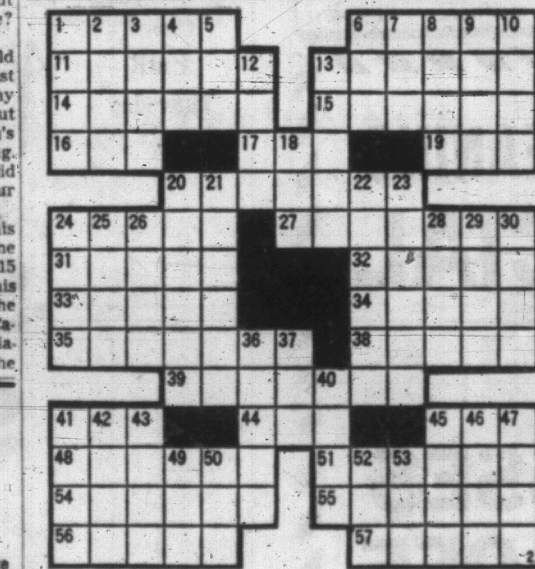

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A woman's getting old when she decides it's time to become middle-aged.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Someone described an old-fashioned office: That's where a 10-minute coffee break lasts only 10 minutes.

EARL'S PEARLS: These days a bargain is anything you have enough credit to buy.

The Cinema Executives, reports Joe E. Lewis, are having trouble. The screens are so wide that they're catching people in other movies... That's earl, brother.

Jubilee Wins Centennial Baby Derby

Victoria's centennial baby took her first look at the great, wide world at 2.35 a.m. Monday in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Weighing in at six pounds 15 ounces, Sueanne Brine was the first baby of the new year and the third child of Allen and Lillian Brine, 1613 Knight.

At home are Marlene, six, and Lenard, four.

At St. Joseph's Hospital first baby honors were captured by a boy weighing seven pounds three ounces, born at 3.43 a.m. to Douglas and Doreen Clarke, 1111 Fairfield.

The third baby of the year was a girl weighing eight 15 ounces, born to Falkert and Barbara DeJong, 2117 Pentland.

MRS. BRINE AND SUEANNE

'GROWING FEELING OF PRIDE'—DIEF

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Sunday in his New Year's message that Canadians can be proud of national progress during 1961.

"In the past year it has been my pleasure to meet with my fellow Canadians during short visits that have taken me to the various parts of our country, including the Northwest Territories. Everywhere there was a growing feeling of pride of Canadians in their country, and a determination to face the challenges that confront us individually, nationally, and internationally.

"Canadians can well take pride in the national progress during 1961. The year has closed on a strong note economically, the later months of the year being much improved over the past. Nineteen-sixty-two is bright with prospects of growth and expansion in the economy.

"The year 1961 was marked by periods of international anxiety and tension. In Berlin, in Africa and in Asia the search for peaceful settlements was not without setbacks and disappointments. However, major military conflicts have been avoided and the process of negotiation and mediation are at work or at least in prospect at the points of danger. As the new year opens, Canada rededicates its energies to the pursuit of that lasting peace which is the goal of men and women everywhere.

"To each and every one of you, I offer my most cordial good wishes that the new year will bring you peace and prosperity."

FIRST WAIL ON STROKE OF MIDNIGHT

By The Canadian Press

Canada's first 1962 baby was born in Montreal on the stroke of midnight to Mrs. Andre Menripin, 28, in suburban La Chine General Hospital.

The seven-pound boy is Mrs. Menripin's seventh child.

A Regina mother, Mrs. R. W. Locke, gave birth to a girl at 12.02 a.m., then produced a second girl at 1.04, for the first set of twins born in Canada in 1962.

Mrs. A. Bernice Greenridge of Toronto was only 15 seconds later than Mrs. Menripin's child with her eight-pound six-ounce boy.

Mrs. Robert Andrews of Windsor, Nfld., gave birth to an eight-pound 3 1/2-ounce boy at 12.04 a.m.

Two minutes later a nine-pound boy was born to Mrs. W. H. Simmons of Cole Harbour, Nova Scotia.

Blue Baby Makes Good Progress

Victoria "blue baby" Karina Marie Willard is in satisfactory condition at Vancouver General Hospital after undergoing surgery Dec. 9 to correct a heart defect.

The nine-week-old daughter of a naval apprentice, Michael Willard, and his wife, Barbara, 1725 Bank, was taken to Vancouver for the operation after preliminary examination at Royal Jubilee Hospital had diagnosed the precise extent of the damage.

Blue babies are the result of heart damage or malformation at, or before birth, which results in mixing of blood in the four chambers of the heart.

Normally blood is oxygenated by the lungs and then pumped by the heart through out the body, returning again to the heart and again to the lungs.

When there is a hole between the two sections of the heart oxygenated blood and blood carrying carbon dioxide mix and impure blood circulates through the body giving it a blue tinge.

Royal Jubilee officials say they deal with several cases a year. In each case all the exploratory work is done by local doctors and technicians. The actual surgery is performed in Vancouver.

The city hospital is not able to perform the complete operation because of a lack of necessary heart pump which takes over the functions of the vital organ during surgery.

The new Jubilee wing, now under construction, will contain complete facilities for this type of work.

London Recovers From Freeze-Up

LONDON (Reuters)—London, caught unprepared by a record snowstorm three days ago, was slowly recovering today from the freeze-up which stopped trains, slowed buses and put London airport out of action.

Temperatures gradually rose above freezing point at noon and frozen snow and slush began to disappear from main traffic routes.

U.K. Air Chief Comes to Canada

LONDON (CP)—Air Minister Julian Amery flies to Ottawa today on an official visit that will take him to air force establishments in Canada.

Amery, Prime Minister Macmillan's son-in-law, will meet government ministers and service chiefs in Ottawa, then visit the RCAF base at Rockcliffe, near Ottawa, and air defence units at North Bay, Ont.

Two Boys Found Frozen To Death

RATON, N.M. (AP)—The bodies of two small brothers were found Monday by searchers. A third boy was still missing.

The bodies were found in the shelter of a large rock on a snow-swept mesa about 12 miles from here were Morris Salazar, nine, and his brother Carlos, seven. They apparently had frozen to death.

Searchers were following the tracks of a third boy, Joe Darris, 13. The boys had been missing from their Raton homes since Thursday.

The boys apparently sought shelter behind the rock from the freezing temperatures and the biting wind. Temperatures at night went down to 15 degrees.

A fourth boy, 17-year-old Billy Darris, brother of Joe, walked out of the area Friday morning after spending Thursday night in a cave. He was taken to hospital for frostbit toes.

The youngsters were on a hike to a deserted cabin.

Sen. Golding Dies
SEAFORTH, Ont. (CP)—Senator William Henry Golding, a Liberal member of Parliament for Huron-Perth for 17 years, and a member of the Senate since 1949, died here Sunday after an illness of three weeks. He was 84.

THIRD OVERDOSE of drugs in six months was fatal Monday for Barbara Burns, 22-year-old troubled daughter of the late comedian Bob Burns. She was found unconscious, and her body was found in a ditch Saturday and never regained consciousness. A narcotics possession charge was pending against her.

Theatre History Recorded

STRATFORD-UPON-AVON (Reuters)—The Sadler's Wells Opera Company made theatrical history Monday night with its opening performance of Iolanthe—the first Gilbert and Sullivan opera ever adapted in Britain for the contemporary stage.

The performance came less than 24 hours after the final 50-year-old copyright on the lyrics of Sir William Gilbert lapsed at midnight Sunday night.

With the copyright went a monopoly on the operettas held by the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company since the days of Queen Victoria.

The operettas now can be performed by anyone and in any way.

The Sadler's Wells production will be closely followed in London by Sir Tyrone Guthrie's productions of HMS Pinafore and The Pirates of Penzance which come from the Stratford, Ont., Shakespearean Festival.

The two operettas are due to open at Her Majesty's Theatre, February 8 and 15, respectively.

Also in London for its winter season is the D'Oyly Carte Company, which has opened at the Savoy Theatre with its traditional production of The Mikado.

Gun-Packing Youths Nabbed At Border

(Compiled From CP)
WHITE ROCK—A group of youths forced their way across the U.S. border from British Columbia at gunpoint Monday.

Burl Beane, a U.S. Customs official, said he checked a car containing three youths and asked them to go into the Customs office at Blaine after he spotted two rifles in the rear seat.

Two youths started to go into the office but the third pointed a revolver at him and all three then got back into the car and fled, he said.

Sumas Sheriff Leroy Witman chased the youths and forced the car into a ditch.

"I ordered them out of the car at gunpoint and got them in a prone position on the highway," he said.

The sheriff said he seized a loaded pistol and two rifles and "there was ammunition all over the car."

Later Clifford George Foreman, 18, of Cloverdale; Russell Bruce Vogler, 20, of South Burnaby and a 17-year-old Langley youth were charged with customs violations.

FATHER DIES
VERNON—The last of a family of four involved in a train-car collision Dec. 13 is dead.

Anton Wagner, 45, died in hospital Sunday of injuries suffered in an accident in which his wife Annie and 10-month-old daughter Anita were killed and his son Anton, 2½, was fatally injured.

The family car plowed into a CPR freight at a level crossing 13 miles east of here.

FIRE HITS SCHOOL
VANCOUVER—Fire heavily damaged a 743-pupil elementary school in the Point Grey district Monday and fire officials said they suspect it was set by an arsonist.

School board officials were to decide today whether smoke and fire damage is extensive enough to keep the Gordon School closed Wednesday when students are due back from Christmas holidays.

The fire destroyed the principal's office and caused extensive smoke damage throughout the building. Fire officials said there was strong evidence that the office had been broken into before the fire and that attempts had been made to set fires in other parts of the building.

GIRL INJURED
PRINCE GEORGE—Seven-year-old Kay Elaine Klassen, who suffered severe head injuries Sunday night when two cars collided 11 miles west of Prince George, was to be flown to Vancouver for treatment.

The girl's condition Monday was described as critical.

Five others were injured in the same accident. All suffered head cuts as the vehicles collided on icy Mud River hill.

TEACHER GETS BALM FOR MUMPS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A teacher is entitled to $1,584 as compensation for contracting mumps from her first grade pupils, says an appellate court.

The teacher, Miss Margaret McDonough, became ill with mumps in 1958. She later developed encephalitis and was not able to work for nine months.

Wrong Body
NEWTON ABBY, England (AP)—Fred Hyatt looked at the body in the morgue and said: "Yes, that's my wife." Then he went home and found his wife cooking dinner in the kitchen. The dead woman was a neighbor, similar in appearance to Mrs. Hyatt, who slipped on the sidewalk and fatally fractured her skull. Neighbors thought it was Mrs. Hyatt and called Fred.

PRAGUE (Reuters)—Czechoslovakia has demanded that Argentina hand over two "war criminals" it claims are living in the South American nation, the official Czech news agency Ceteka reported.

JERRY GIESLER

Famed Lawyer For Film Dies at 75

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jerry Giesler, the lawyer film stars called for when in trouble, died in his sleep Monday. He was 75.

Giesler had been in hospital since last week, suffering from pneumonia, but the end came at his Beverly Hills home. The heart ailment was blamed.

Despite illness, Giesler still managed to mastermind important cases. An associate did the courtroom work, but he called signals in the defence of his last major case: The defence of Carole Tregoff in the three Finch murder trials.

His specialty was crimes of passion, and the movie colony kept him busy. His clients included Charlie Chaplin, Errol Flynn, Robert Mitchum, Lana Turner, Mickey Cohen.

He handled divorces for Zsa Zsa Gabor, Barbara Hutton, Marilyn Monroe, Bette Davis and Shelley Winters. He represented Marie McDonald when her story of being kidnapped prompted a police inquiry.

Though he spent his life among the glamorous, no glitter rubbed off on him. He was ordinary looking—bald, paunchy. He spoke quietly and lived quietly.

But in court, he was dynamite. His forte was cross-examination, but he said his real secret was in planning.

HOPE AND FOREBODING AMONG LEADERS

'... Toward Peace or War?'

LONDON (Reuters)—World leaders exchanged messages Monday that contained a mixture of hope and foreboding for the new year.

Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Khrushchev sent greetings to President Kennedy, echoing his hopes for peace.

"There is no doubt that on the state of affairs in Soviet-American relations depends very much whether humanity will go toward peace or war," the Soviet message said.

Prime Minister Macmillan's message to Soviet Premier Khrushchev said: "I share your hope that this year may bring some progress toward a peaceful and satisfactory solution of the problems that confront us."

French President de Gaulle was among the statesmen who were more sombre. In a New Year's order of the day to his armed forces, de Gaulle said they "must essentially prepare themselves in Europe for the great warrior actions which will be necessary to ensure peace and on her allies."

Czech President Antonin Novotny accused the West of stalling on a German peace treaty to build up a "militarist West Germany" and warned that Communist time-limits on peace treaty talks "cannot be endless."

PRAYS FOR PEACE

In Vatican City, Pope John dedicated an early New Year's Day mass in his private chapel to prayers for world peace in 1962. Later he gave blessings from his office window to a crowd of 15,000 massed under bright sunshine in St. Peter's Square.

In Lisbon, Portuguese President Americo Tomas said in a New Year's speech that 1961 brought "aggression" against Portugal in Goa and Angola. He said the cause of this was that "a great part of the West let itself suffer the contagion of erroneous ideas, unaware that they are playing the game of the enemy and that pacifism and self-determination are cloaks that conceal very different designs."

In Peking, Chinese Communist newspapers greeted the new year with red banner headlines and editorials calling for national unity and hard work.

Festival Carries On

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver International Festival, on shaky financial legs at the end of its 1961 season, has raised sufficient funds to continue in 1962.

A statement from the festival last week said grants or pledges for $52,000 had been made or promised to cover the 1961 deficit.

The city and provincial government have each made grants of $20,000. Business and private sources made up the other $12,000. The two government grants were contingent on the availability of the other $12,000.

$1 MILLION HAUL
Plush Homes On 2 Coasts Burglarized
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Burglars who apparently arrived by boat have looted the plush winter home of Norman B. Woolworth of the variety store family.

The New Year's Eve burglary was discovered Monday by caretakers who live nearby. Police say they are having trouble determining just what was taken.

Woolworth, nephew of the founder of the F. W. Woolworth stores, said there were no jewels in the two-storey home.

Reached at his New York apartment, he told the Miami Herald:

"I understand they took furs, china and silver and several paintings and my clothes. They were crazy to take my clothes. They got stuck."

The Woolworth estate is adjacent to a mooring area for the luxury yachts of wealthy seasonal residents of Indian Creek Village.

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP)—Burglars broke into the home of San Francisco jeweler Joseph C. Hickingbotham Jr. Monday and got away with jewels, furs and clothing.

The police radio said the loot was estimated to value $1,000,000.

Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa said he didn't know where the $1,000,000 estimate came from but the loss would "probably run into a considerable amount of money."

207,026 Refugees Flee East Germany
BONN (Reuters)—A total of 207,026 East German refugees applied for asylum during 1961, the West German ministry said today. This was slightly more than the 1960 total of about 200,000, although the westward flow had been reduced to a trickle since West Berlin was sealed off by the Communists in August.

The governor of the state of New York has the highest salary, $50,000, of any U.S. state governor.

City Hall Lights Way To Centenary

Sparkling like a freshly-frosted cake, Victoria's 84-year-old City Hall took on its new look for the centenary Sunday midnight when retiring Mayor Percy Scurrell pressed floodlight switch (at right). By Monday morning he had turned over his chain of office to Mayor Dick Wilson, shown at left making centennial proclamation, inviting visitors from afar and wide to help us celebrate gala year. WELL-ARMED TRIBESMEN BATTLE IRAQI FORCES

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—About 800 Kurdish tribesmen, armed with bazookas and mortars, are fighting government forces and enemy tribes in the snow-covered hills of northern Iraq, sources here said today.

Premier Abdel Karim Kassem has launched police attacks against the turbaned rebels. The Iraqi government also has withdrawn and transferred Kurdish troops stationed with the government army in the north, and is using air attacks where necessary to suppress the revolt, the sources reported.

Goofballs Blamed In Prison Riot

MONTREAL (CP)—All is quiet and normal at Montreal's riot-racked Bordeaux jail today, a prison official said.

A spokesman in the office of acting jail governor Lt.-Col. Leon Lambert said 400 rebellious prisoners have been returned without trouble to their cells.

The prisoners, who staged a four-hour New Year's Day riot, spent part of the night tramping about in two flooded cell blocks. The water came from fire hoses used to put out fires and quell prisoner resistance.

Col. Lambert estimated the damage to the two prison wings at $50,000.

Dog Pack Tears Girl To Death

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Two armed men today hunted down a pack of killer dogs that ripped to death six-year-old Deborah June Richards in the tiny northwestern Ontario community of Auden Sunday.

At last report, the two men had shot five of the dogs. Several more still were loose.

The little girl's death has stunned the community of 300 and sent residents into open mourning.

"Anybody you talked to had tears in their eyes," said Police Constable B. E. Dorigo, who helped investigate the incident in the community of 300 persons 200 miles northeast of here.

The girl was attacked and killed about 170 yards from the Auden community hall after she had been let out of her father's truck.

Police authority for the hunt was needed because Auden is in a game preserve and there is a ban on the carrying of firearms.

Const. Dorigo said the dogs came from the Indian village of Onababika, near Auden. The dogs, he said, always sought food scraps at Abitibi's cook house, where single male employees were fed.

Police said the Richards girl was walking home from the Auden community hall, after regular Sunday classes had been cancelled, when the attack occurred.

STRAYS FOLLOW TRUCK

"Mr. Richards, who had taken his daughter to the hall earlier, had driven back home with the family's German shepherd in the back of his truck.

The pack of strays followed the truck, barking at the family dog which had frequently fought with the strays in the past.

After Mr. Richards reached home, the strays had turned around and met Deborah walking home.

Apparently worked up by the chase and smelling the German shepherd's scent on Deborah, the dogs attacked the girl, tore her clothing and mauled her to death.

Revolt in Portugal Speedily Put Down

BEJA (AP)—The hunt was on today for political associates of a rebel leader who tried unsuccessfully to seize a military barracks and touch off a revolution against Premier Antonio Salazar's Portuguese government.

Capt. Joao Maria Paulo Varela Gomes, an army officer-turned politician, lay near death in Beja Hospital. Manuel Serra, a former Roman Catholic youth leader who authorities said shared leadership of the uprising with Gomes, was captured while heading for the Spanish border with four heavily-armed companions.

Between 40 and 50 persons, most of them workers, were apparently in the band that engaged Salazar's troops in a three-hour gun battle Sunday at the barracks of the Third Infantry Regiment. Officials at first announced all had been killed or captured.

But so far the government has announced only one rebel killed, two wounded and 20 others captured. It appeared some might still be at large, although the rebel casualties were believed to have been much higher than the government said.

Most notable casualty on the government side was Lt. Col. Jaime Filipe da Fonseca, undersecretary for war who rushed to this southern-city 105 miles southeast of Lisbon. He ordered the government forces to hold their fire and then walked into the barracks to demand that the rebels surrender. They shot him down, and he died later in hospital.

U.K. Posties Work by Book, Delay Mails

LONDON (Reuters)—Mail arrived late throughout Britain Monday, the first day of a go-slow move to back wage demands by 160,000 postal and telephone workers.

In slowing down, postal workers are following faithfully every detail laid down in the post office handbook, which is bound to slow up the service.

One example is the decision of mailmen no longer to push letters under doors which have no letter-boxes, but to ring the doorbell and wait until the householder appears, as the handbook dictates.

Most notable casualty on the government side was Lt. Col. Jaime Filipe da Fonseca, undersecretary for war who rushed to this southern-city 105 miles southeast of Lisbon. He ordered the government forces to hold their fire and then walked into the barracks to demand that the rebels surrender. They shot him down, and he died later in hospital.

TWO WEAR UNIFORM

Dr. Antonio Marques Erasmio, civil governor of the Beja district, said only two of the rebels were in army uniforms—including Gomes, Reuters reported.

The Portuguese national radio said several Communists were among those held. Governor Erasmio said the rebels came from outside the barracks and only two soldiers in side-co-operated with them, Reuters said.

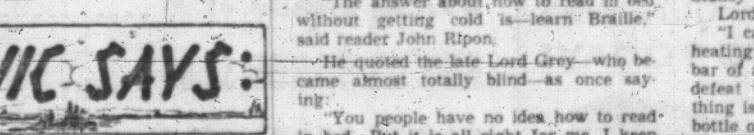

After the uprising the government placed all police and military units in a "state of prevention." There was no general alert, but a huge Lisbon rally scheduled for Wednesday night was cancelled, officially in mourning for da Fonseca.

Salazar was to have addressed the rally to outline Portuguese policy for 1962 following a year of painful and embarrassing setbacks ranging from the seizure of the Ilha Santa Maria on the high seas to the Indian seizure of Goa.

NEGROES HALT BUSES

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters)—Armed police were sent in to a nearby Negro township today after Negroes prevented buses from leaving for the city. Five buses were stoned and their windshields smashed.

It would be a great service to those of us who do not enjoy central heating if he, or any kind reader, could suggest how this can be done without hands and shoulders becoming numb with cold, wrote Sidney Morris.

Lord Birkett replied: "I can only say that I have no central heating in my bedroom, but find that one bar of an electric fire and a thick sweater defeat the coldest nights. The important thing is to warm the bed with a hot-water bottle or an electric blanket before getting into it."

A reader named John S. Cummings wrote to The Times, saying: "Try reversing your dressing gown and wearing it outside the bed covers—a practice which I have found successful for many years."

As an afterthought he added: "A pair of mittens is invaluable in particularly cold weather."

City Tugs Battle High Seas

Two powerful Victoria-based deep-sea tugs today were fighting 40-mile-an-hour winds and raging seas trying to free a Greek freighter hard aground on the west coast of Vancouver Island, at the entrance to Ucluelet Inlet, at the mouth of Barkley Sound.

The 10,000-ton Greek-owned tramp, Ss. Giakos ran aground in dense fog Monday night. She was holed and hung up on an underwater pinnacle of rock which has pierced the hull and flooded the engine room.

The two tugs dispatched to the freighter's aid Monday night are the Pacific salvage veteran Sudbury I and the Island Challenger, both owned by Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

BOUNCED AROUND

The freighter was in grave peril from pounding seas which bounced her around on the pinnacle. There are two other rocks nearby.

The salvage tugs had difficulty getting close enough to get a line aboard due to the heavy seas, and were further hampered by continued fog.

POOR VISIBILITY

He said visibility was very poor, but occasional glimpses through the fog indicated the freighter was "working" up and down on the rock.

The captain of the Bamfield lifeboat said at 1 p.m. "seas are running mighty high."

He said the crew is still aboard the freighter, but the lifeboat was ready to take the men off if needed.

The ship is without power, lights or radio communication. She radioed for aid at 7:44 p.m., but by 8:15 or so the water had flooded her dynamos. Lightkeeper Armstrong said his last radio communication was between 8:15 and 8:30 p.m. He said only one man aboard, the radio operator, could speak English.

DIVER THERE

Capt. Roy Blake, Island Tug port captain is in charge of the salvage attempt, and diver Jack Daley is on the scene.

The Tofino and Bamfield lifeboats and an RCAF helicopter were standing by at Tofino to take off the crew if necessary, although the freighter's captain, E. Petros, said early there were no injuries and the crew was not in danger.

The freighter was inbound for Vancouver from Japan, to load grain for Venezuela.

SHIP RADIOS 'LOST IN FOG'

SEATTLE (AP)—The 324-foot freighter Oriental Trader radioed today she was lost in fog off the Strait of Juan de Fuca, on the northwest Washington coast.

The Coast Guard at Seattle sent a cutter and plane from its Port Angeles station to try to find the Liberian-registered ship and guide her in.

WARM READ IN COLD BED HOT TOPIC IN BRITAIN

LONDON (AP)—Readers of The Times warmed up the newspaper's editorial columns Monday with suggestions on how to read in bed without freezing your hands and arms.

"The answer about how to read in bed without getting cold is—learn Braille," said reader John Ripon.

He quoted the late Lord Grey, who became almost totally blind as once saying: "You people have no idea how to read in bed. But it is all right for me. I keep the book under the bedclothes."

The question of how to read in bed without freezing became an issue after Lord Birkett wrote an article in The Times on the pleasures of reading in bed.

Realistic readers—in a nation that still regards central heating as a strange, unhealthy North American custom—immediately challenged His Lordship.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. A few weeks ago I was at a bingo game. In one of the games four numbers were called, down the N's. What I would like to know is what are the odds of a person getting a bingo in only four numbers called? S. D.

A. Presumably there are only four ways in which this could be done: vertically, horizontally, or either of the two diagonal ways, utilizing the centre free square. In this case, a player has 16 chances out of 4,794,275 of getting a bingo in the first four numbers called.

Q. What is "Discovery Day"? Who discovered what, and when? O.M.

A. In Canada, "Discovery Day" is celebrated on June 24. It is the anniversary of John Cabot's landing on the North American coast, either in Newfoundland, southern Labrador or Cape Breton Island, in 1497.

NEW YEAR'S EVE ON SUNDAY DIDN'T MATTER

A Bangup Night...As Usual

Sunday start for New Year's Eve didn't worry Victorians who just waited until midnight before taking the lid off.

Revelers flocked to nearly every night spot in the city which mostly opened after 10 p.m.

Licences to serve liquor were issued for 12:01 a.m. on but the attorney-general's department had previously indicated a blind eye would be turned to parties jumping the gun after 10 p.m.

A survey of bigger clubs showed that few took advantage of this. The majority of pre-midnight drinking was at home.

City police said no impaired driving charges were laid although car keys were taken from four or five over-enthusiastic tipplers.

The Empress Hotel cancelled its usual dance but 300 people crowded into the Crystal Garden to watch some original New Year's entertainment along with the dance.

At the stroke of midnight swimmer James McCague Jr. dived into the pool from the Boat Tragedy Clue Checked

Saanich police are still confronted with the problem of identifying the body of a child washed up on the beach last Thursday and the possibility of linking it to a burned-out boat found drifting off Oak Bay Wednesday.

"But we may have a clue," Saanich Chief W. A. Pearson said today. "We have been given a tip on some people who might be able to identify the boat but we won't be able to contact them until Wednesday," he said.

Chief Pearson indicated they live on one of the Gulf Islands but are away on holiday. An autopsy revealed the boy, aged between 13 and 22 months, died of exposure rather than drowning.

high board dressed as old 1961 and "disappeared."

He was followed by 18-year-old Patricia Reid who, costumed as the new year, dived in and swam under water to a tethered 1962 sign and popped to the surface with it.

Themes varying from spring to Hawaiian were featured at dances throughout Greater Victoria.

"I can't think of a single public hall that didn't have a dance," said a police official. The lack of "customers" in the city jail was explained in part by busy taxi companies.

Extra drivers were used by nearly all companies and business was up over previous years.

The peak period was between 3 and 4 a.m. Monday when all cabs were busy for a short period.

Cab company spokesmen reported a great number of calls to private residences, house parties in general appeared to have been larger and went on longer than in previous years.

Fire Sweeps British Ship

Fire early today swept through the midships section of the 6,000-ton British freighter King David at Nanaimo, causing an estimated $30,000 damage and sending third mate Tom Patch, 21, of Manchester, England, to hospital for treatment of first degree burns, asphyxiation and shock.

CAPT. BEAUMONT MADE DECISION ON 88TH BIRTHDAY

Choice Property Donated for Marine Park

"People of British Columbia have received a Christmas present from Captain Ernest G. Beaumont of Discovery Island in the form of 38 acres of waterfront on South Pender Island."

The Bedwell Harbor property, including a sheltered harbor and shell beaches, faces south and east to South Pender wharf. It will be converted into a marine park.

Most people are accustomed to receiving presents on their birthdays, but it was on his 88th birthday, on Dec. 22, that Capt. Beaumont decided to give this property to the provincial government parks division. The papers were signed on Christmas Day.

CREAM OF PROPERTY

Capt. Beaumont described the Bedwell Harbor lot as the cream of his South Pender Island property.

"On Armistice Day, 1918, I got rather excited and bought over 500 acres of land. I have sold most of my Pender Island property, but kept the cream of it until the other day," he said.

Capt. Beaumont still owns waterfront acreage in Browning Harbor, but describes it as less suitable for a park.

GOOD MOORING

"Bedwell Harbor is the best mooring spot in the area," he said. Last summer more than 350 boats, mostly American, visited the spot.

Capt. Beaumont recalled taking parties of Boy Scouts and cadets to the South Pender Island property for manoeuvres in his yacht Discovery Isle II.

"The boys loved the place," he said. "We gave them over 200 rounds of blank ammunition and they made a devil of a noise firing them off and running through the woods."

NEW MOORINGS

Capt. Beaumont wished to give more people the opportunity to enjoy the beaches and harbor. It is expected

Fisherman Plucked From Frigid Water

A FORMER DEPUTY SUPER-INTENDENT at HMC Dockyard, Esquimalt, Capt. Stuart E. Paddon has been promoted to the rank of commodore, RCN headquarters announced today. He has been director general of fighting equipment at Ottawa since June, 1961.

Carpenters Hear Cry For Help

Residents of the Dallas Road waterfront watched anxiously today as a B.C. Pilotage boat rescued a man whose boat overturned while he was fishing near Brochie Ledge.

Sixty-one-year-old Thor Sollien, 3211 Richmond, spent about 20 minutes in the frigid waters off Holland Point before he was plucked out at the end of a boathook.

HEARD SHOUTS

His plight was first noticed by two carpenters atop scaffolding on a Dallas Road apartment building. They heard his shouts for help and called police.

Police in turn notified the pilotage authority which dispatched a boat from its berth at the east end of the Ogden Point docks.

STRONG CURRENT

According to eye witnesses, Mr. Sollien's boat was first spotted near the Brochie Ledge buoy but by the time he was rescued a strong current had carried him about half a mile eastward.

While in the water some 400 yards off shore he clung to the bottom of his overturned boat. The whole operation was carried out in driving rain although the sea was calm.

Wrapped snugly in a blanket while dry clothes were fetched for him, Mr. Sollien looked none the worse for his chilling experience.

"I can't understand how it happened, I've worked in boats all my life," he said.

HIT DEADHEAD

Mr. Sollien, dockyard worker said the probable reason was that his small outboard motor powered boat struck a floating deadhead.

His boat and motor were recovered intact but all his fishing tackle was lost.

"I'd been fishing all morning," he said, "and there was about a 20-pound salmon I'd caught that was lying in the bottom of the boat when I overturned. I lost it."

The sharp-eyed carpenters who sparked the rescue operation were brothers Claud Bugslag, 1022 Pemberton, and A. P. Bugslag, 1401 Oliver.

They were working on scaffolding at 412 Dallas, an apartment building. "We heard these calls for help but couldn't think where they were coming from. Then we saw the upturned boat," said Claud.

$60 Stolen

Biggest haul in a series of burglaries during the week-end was $60 taken Monday night from the office of Individual Dry Cleaners, 226 Menzies.

A small quantity of cash was taken from a cigarette vending machine in the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Club on Wharf Street, New Year's Eve, while a dance was in progress in the building.

Centennial Year Officially Launched By Flood of Light

By AB KENT

A flick of a switch launched Victoria into its second hundred years and etched the ancient outlines of City Hall against the sky New Year's Eve.

Centennial floodlighting of the ornate front by retiring Mayor Percy Scugah symbolically threw the torch of administration to newly-elected Mayor Dick Wilson, who, with new members of city council, was sworn to office today.

Declarations were made before Mr. Justice Wootton in Assize Court chambers as present members of council and administrators looked on.

"It is quite obvious to me that in this centennial year the name Wilson will be commensurate with the works of your forebears" linked with the history of this community for so long a time," Mr. Justice Wootton said.

Mayor Wilson swore to be faithful to his duties, to be loyal to the Queen, and that he holds no interest in the city other than that allowable by law.

INBORN SPIRIT

The judge said the new mayor has the inborn spirit of one who was born in the city and wishes to do it honor.

He said he got double enjoyment from the swearing-in ceremony, "because I look up to those who perform the serious duties of public office, and because Victoria is my birthplace."

To Ald. M. H. Mooney the judge said he was "quite convinced from past performance the office is deserved."

Mr. Justice Wootton spoke in turn to Ald. Geoffrey Edgewood, Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson and Ald. J. L. W. McLean.

"You are a man of God..."

he told the latter, "and can lend dignity to the office."

School District 61 trustees David Logan and John W. Porteous also took their sworn declarations before Mr. Justice Wootton, who told them:

"Children are the greatest asset of the community and those who instruct must be the greatest of the great."

Mayor Wilson said he was honored to be Victoria's mayor and hoped he could do equal justice to the office as his predecessor.

HANDED SEAL

Judge Wootton handed him the seal of the city to close the ceremony.

Clerk M. F. Hunter explained to the justice that orders-in-council for police commissioners would not be ready until later today.

A half hour later council met in its own chamber for the inaugural meeting of 1962.

Regular order of business was dispensed with, but the councilors passed a provisional budget of $10,293,750 in accordance with the Municipal Act.

MEET MONDAY

First regular meeting of the council was set for Monday, at 2 p.m.

Mayor Wilson—using for the first time a gavel presented to him by Victoria Gyro Club—said he was "glad you are all experienced in council business because I will need your help for a while."

He expressed the hope members of the council would weld into a team to conduct the city's business.

He said he was aware that council is "concerned about the hours members have to spend on council business. I hope I can assist you there," he told them, and wished all a happy and prosperous New Year.

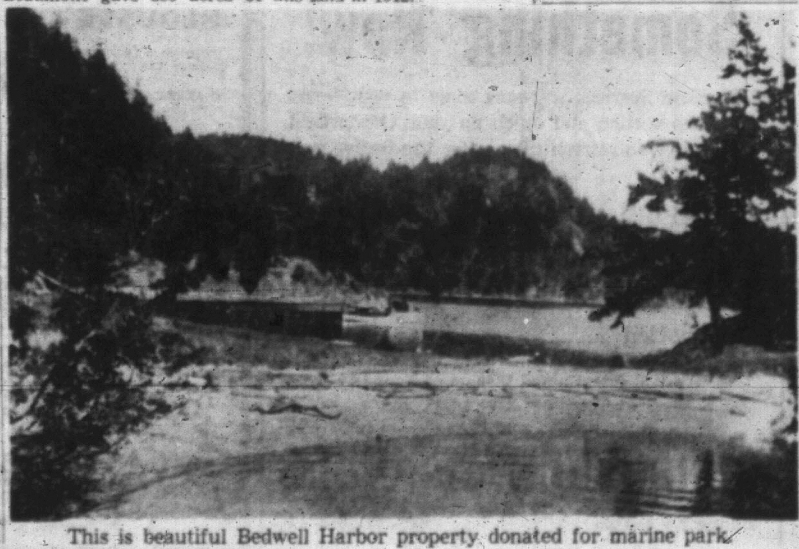

Ald. Arthur Dowell said he felt sure the new mayor would have the support of council.

ALL INVITED

"We in Victoria want visitors to share with us and enjoy the great amenities here for gracious, cultured living and our celebration of this, Victoria's centennial year, for which a special and outstanding program worthy of the occasion has been in course of preparation for the past two years by the city's special centennial committee," Mayor Wilson said.

"I extend far and wide a cordial invitation to 'come to our centennial celebration. Enjoy with us a most pleasant time and wonderful experiences..."

This is beautiful Bedwell Harbor property, donated for marine park.

Goofballs Blamed
In Prison Riot

MONTREAL (CP)—All is quiet and normal at Montreal's riot-racked Bordeaux jail today, a prison official said.

A spokesman in the office of acting jail governor Lt.-Col. Leon Lambert said 400 rebellious prisoners have been returned without trouble to their cells.

The prisoners, who staged a four-hour New Year's Day riot, spent part of the night tramping about in two flooded cell blocks. The water came from fire hoses used to put out fires and quell prisoner resistance.

Col. Lambert estimated the damage to the two prison wings at $50,000.

Four men, firemen Robert Way, and three prisoners, were injured. Way was struck by a piece of metal thrown by a prisoner.

WELL-ARMED TRIBESMEN
BATTLE IRAQI FORCES

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—About 500 Kurdish tribesmen, armed with bazookas and mortars, are fighting government forces and enemy tribes in the snow-covered hills of northern Iraq, sources here said today.

Premier Abdel Karim Kassam, has launched police attacks against the tribesmen. The Iraqi government also has withdrawn and transferred Kurdish troops stationed with the government army in the north, and is using air attacks where necessary to suppress the revolt, the sources reported.

Dog Pack
Tears Girl
To Death

PORT ARTHUR, (CP)—

Two armed men today hunted down a pack of killer dogs that ripped to death six-year-old Deborah June Richards in the tiny northwestern Ontario community of Auden Sunday.

At last report, the two men had shot five of the dogs. Several more still were loose.

The little girl's death has stunned the community of 300 and sent residents into open mourning.

"Anybody you talked to had tears in their eyes," said Police Constable B. E. Dorigo, who helped investigate the incident in the community of 300 persons 200 miles northeast of here.

The girl was attacked and killed about 170 yards from the Auden community hall after she had been let out of her father's truck.

Police authority for the hunt was needed because Auden is in a game preserve and there is a ban on the carrying of firearms.

Const. Dorigo said the dogs came from the Indian village of Onabika, near Auden. The dogs, he said, always sought food scraps at Abitibi's cook-house, where single male employees were fed.

Police said the Richards girl was walking home from the Auden community hall, after regular Sunday classes had been cancelled, when the attack occurred.

STRAYS FOLLOW TRUCK

Mr. Richards, who had taken his daughter to the hall earlier, had driven back home with the family's German shepherd in the back of his truck.

The pack of strays followed the truck, barking at the family dog which had frequently fought with the strays in the past.

After Mr. Richards reached home, the strays had turned around and met Deborah walking home.

Apparently worked up by the chase and smelling the German shepherd's scent on Deborah, the dogs attacked the girl, tore her clothing and mauled her to death.

U.K. Posties
Work by Book, Delay Mails

LONDON (Reuters)—Mail arrived late throughout Britain Monday, the first day of a go-slow move to back wage demands by 160,000 postal and telephone workers.

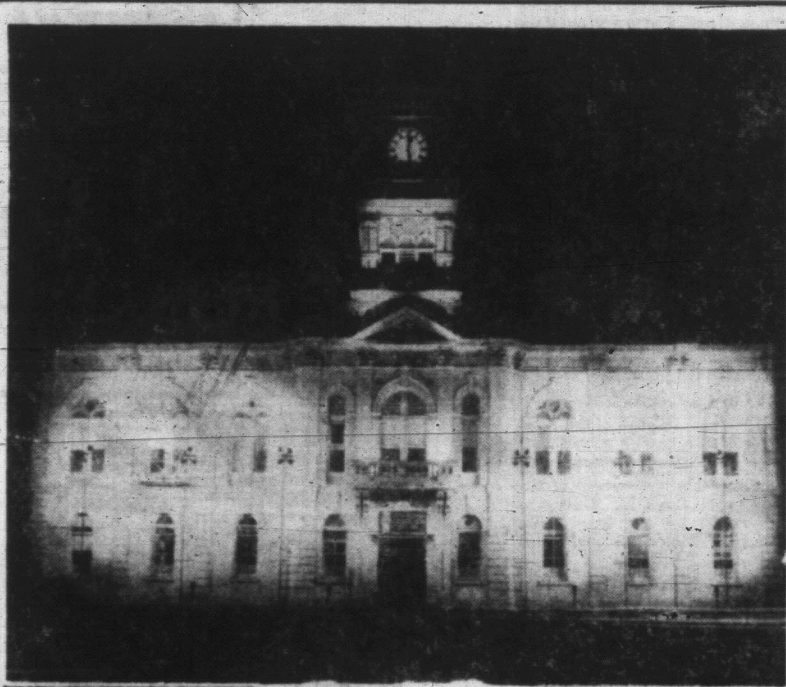

In slowing down, postal workers are following faithfully every detail laid down in the post office handbook, which is bound to slow up the service.

One example is the decision of mailmen no longer to push letters under doors which have no letter-boxes, but to ring the doorbell and wait until the householder appears, as the handbook dictates.

Dutch Change Stand,
Ready to Negotiate

BEJA (AP)—The hunt was on today for political associates of a rebel leader who tried unsuccessfully to seize a military barracks and touch off a revolution against Premier Antonio Salazar's Portuguese government.

Capt. Joao Maria Paulo Varela Gomes, an army officer turned politician, lay near death in Beja Hospital. Manuel Serra, a former Roman Catholic youth leader who authorities said shared leadership of the uprising with Gomes, was captured while heading for the Spanish border with four heavily-armed companions.

Between 40 and 50 persons, most of them workers, were apparently in the band that engaged Salazar's troops in a three-hour gun battle Sunday at the barracks of the Third Infantry Regiment. Officials at first announced all had been killed or captured.

But so far the government has announced only one rebel killed, two wounded and 20 others captured. It appeared some might still be at large, although the rebel casualties were believed to have been much higher than the government said.

Most notable casualty on the government side was Lt. Col. Jaime Filipe da Fonseca, undersecretary for war who rushed to this southern city 105 miles southeast of Lisbon. He ordered the government forces to hold their fire and then walked into the barracks to demand that the rebels surrender. They shot him down, and he died later in hospital.

Dr. Antonio Marques Fragoso, civil governor of the Beja district, said only two of the rebels were in army uniforms—including Gomes, Reuters reported.

The Portuguese national radio said several Communists were among those held. Governor Fragoso said the rebels came from outside the barracks and only two soldiers in side co-operated with them, Reuters said.

After the uprising the government placed all police and military units in a "state of prevention." There was no general alert, but a huge Lisbon rally scheduled for Wednesday night was cancelled, officially in mourning for da Fonseca.

Salazar was to have addressed the rally to outline Portuguese policy for 1962 following a year of painful and embarrassing setbacks ranging from the seizure of the Ilha Santa Maria on the high seas to the Indian seizure of Goa.

Pounding Seas
Peril Freighter

Two powerful Victoria-based deep-sea tugs today were fighting 40-mile-an-hour winds, and raging seas trying to free a Greek freighter hard aground on the west coast of Vancouver Island, at the entrance to Ucluelet Inlet, at the mouth of Barkley Sound.

The 10,000-ton Greek-owned tramp, Ss Glafkos ran aground in dense fog Monday night. She was holed and hung up on an underwater pinnacle of rock which has pierced the hull and flooded the engine room.

The two tugs dispatched to the freighter's aid Monday night are the Pacific salvage veteran Sudbury I and the Island Challenger, both owned by Island Tug and Barge Ltd.

Sudbury managed to get a line aboard the freighter between 1.30 and 2 p.m., but at press time there was no sign of the stricken ship having budged.

BOUNCED AROUND

The freighter was in grave peril from pounding seas which bounced her around on the pinnacle. There are two other rocks nearby.

The salvage tugs had difficulty getting close enough to get a line aboard due to the heavy seas, and were further hampered by continued fog.

Jack Armstrong, keeper of the Amphitrite Point light, about a mile from the wreck, reported to the Times by telephone the weather was "simply terrible."

POOR VISIBILITY

He said visibility was very poor, but occasional glimpses through the fog indicated the freighter was "working" up and down on the rock.

The captain of the Bamfield lifeboat said at 1 p.m. "seas are running mighty high."

He said the crew is still aboard the freighter, but the lifeboat was ready to take the men off if needed.

The ship is without power, lights or radio communication. She radioed for aid at 7.44 p.m., but by 8.15 or so the water had flooded her dynamos. Lightkeeper Armstrong said her last radio communication was between 8.15 and 8.30 p.m. He said only one man aboard, the radio operator, could speak English.

DIVER THERE

Capt. Roy Blake, Island Tug port captain is in charge of the salvage attempt, and diver Jack Daley is on the scene.

The Tofino and Bamfield lifeboats and an RCAF helicopter were standing by at Tofino to take off the crew if necessary, although the freighter's captain, E. Petros, said early there were no injuries and the crew was not in danger.

The freighter was inbound for Vancouver from Japan, to load grain for Venezuela.

She went aground in an area once known as the "graveyard of the Pacific."

'LOST IN FOG'

Dutch
To Talk

(Times News Services)

THE HAGUE—The Dutch government announced today it is ready to negotiate the future of West New Guinea with Indonesia without any preliminary conditions.

The diplomatic galleries were packed as Premier Jan Quay read an eight-page statement on its New Guinea policy, which represented a drastic change in The Netherlands' previous stand in the dispute.

Announcing the government's decision to drop the self-determination principle, the premier said:

"This decision does not affect our conviction that we should keep in mind first of all the interest of the population in negotiations. It can reasonably be expected that Indonesia, too, is willing to join the conference table without previous conditions to The Netherlands being made from her side."

"I believe that I have gone as far as it is now possible for the government to go, without jeopardizing the result of current diplomatic contacts."

SOCIALISTS PROTEST

Following De Quay's remarks, the Socialist opposition demanded participation in a new "national cabinet" that would work out a "peaceful settlement" of the New Guinea dispute.

De Quay's statement came amid these other developments in the growing Indonesian crisis that threatens to set off a war in the southeast Pacific.

Pressure Feared by Tshombe

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Katanga's secessionist President Moïse Tshombe has rejected the central government's call for the Katangan Assembly to meet at the United Nations base at Kamina.

Tshombe called the central government's action "illegal" Monday and announced he was going ahead with plans to have the assembly meet Wednesday in Elisabethville, the provincial capital.

Kamina is also in Katanga, but Tshombe apparently feels the central government would be able to bring pressure to bear on assembly delegates there when they meet to satisfy his Dec. 21 agreement with Premier Cyrille Adoula.

On its part, the central government fears the strength of Tshombe's influence if the assembly meets here.

Tshombe also announced that he has ordered the 1,800-man Katangan garrison at Kongolo to withdraw after fierce fighting with central government troops for control of the town for nearly a week.

MINING CENTRE FALLS

The tin-mining centre of Manono has also fallen to anti-Tshombe forces, and there were reports that the Balubakati, the political wing of the Baluba tribes, who are bitter enemies of Tshombe, control one-third of the province.

However, Tshombe denied radio reports that the Kapona, also under attack by the central government, had fallen.

Tshombe accused the central government troops of pillaging and burning villages around Kongolo. He said Katangan army casualties were slight, but many civilians had been killed by mortar fire.

DREDGE SAFE ENDING EPIC OF ATLANTIC

HALIFAX (CP) — The trouble-plagued dredge Cartagena reached Halifax harbor today, barely escaping a blizzard.

The $4,000,000 dredge, owned by the Standard Dredging Company of New York, tied up alongside a salvage pier after the Canadian tug Foundation Vigilant brought her into port in a snowstorm that struck the Nova Scotia coast.

For 2½ days the Vigilant had struggled in heavy seas to tow her cantankerous "charge" 200 miles to safety.

The Cartagena's troubles began Christmas Day when she broke away from the Vigilant while being towed from Quebec City to Baltimore. The two vessels were then about 200 miles south of Halifax.

ECM To Try Again On Farm Policies

BRUSSELS (AP) — The European Common Market council of ministers Saturday night pushed back the deadline on whether to pass into the second stage of economic integration. They were unable to agree on a common agricultural policy.

The Common Market treaty calls for the members to enter what is considered the most decisive stage at midnight Sunday night, but the ministers adjourned until Thursday without decision on whether to take the step.

Ludwig Erhard, West German minister of economics and present council chairman, told reporters that the council adjourned only for the holidays and asserted agreement would be reached quickly once the council resumed talks.

The European Economic Community agreement calls for a full economic and customs union of its members in three stages of four years each. Each stage is to bring them one-third of the way to

NO MIGHTY POWER NOW MAC REMINDS BRITONS

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan reminded the British nation Sunday it is no longer the mighty power that once policed the world and must depend on its allies to survive.

Macmillan, in a sober New Year's message, said Britain's "period of supremacy" in the world is gone and that its role now is that of a working partner "in the great alliance which the free world has built against the Communist threat."

New President Promises Freedom for Dominicans

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) —

Rafael Bonnelly, president-to-be of the Dominican Republic's new council of state, promised Dominicans freedom of assembly and discussion Monday and warned the armed forces against interference in the affairs of the new anti-Trujillo government.

Bonnelly, named to succeed President Joaquin Balaguer as head of the ruling body, declared at the swearing-in of the seven-man council that freedom to meet and discuss all issues would be observed "because truth can be achieved only through conscientious and dispassionate discussion."

He said that the council, which will assume all legislative and executive powers until installation of an elected government early in 1963, wished to emphasize "our decided endeavor to maintain unalterable" the armed forces' non-political status.

Maj. Gen. Pedro Rodríguez Echavarría, chief of the armed forces, has vowed to support the council. Rodríguez Echavarría led a military move which crushed an apparent coup planned by Trujillo diehards last October and paved the way for the expulsion of the family of the late Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo.

Sworn in as vice-president of the council, Bonnelly will take over from Balaguer when the latter resigns, possibly within a week. Balaguer drew up the plan for an interim government and promised to quit when the Organization of American States lifts its economic and diplomatic sanctions against the Dominican Republic.

President Kennedy has announced the United States favors lifting the sanctions imposed against the old Trujillo regime for plotting to assassinate President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela.

Bonnelly represents the National Civic Union, major opposition faction which agreed to give the Balaguer plan a chance after weeks of off-and-on negotiations.

400 Held in Lebanon as Revolt By Anti-Nasser Rightists Fails

BEIRUT (AP) — About 400 persons were reported under arrest today, following the unsuccessful uprising by a right-wing extremist group seeking to push Lebanon into an anti-Nasser bloc with other Arab countries.

Large stores of arms were also seized Monday in raids on villages where the Popular Social party maintained strongholds. The party wants Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Palestine and Cyprus joined under one Arab flag but, strongly, opposes President Nasser's pan-Arab movement led from Cairo.

Premier Rashid Karami's cabinet dissolved the party and announced restrictions on political parties, the press and foreigners. This followed reports that many of the plotters were from Syria, Jordan and Palestine.

Two captains who spearheaded the uprising Sunday were still at large.

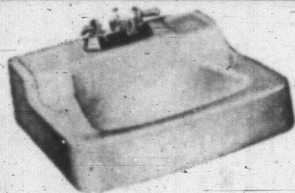

At least five persons were killed in sharp fighting before the plotters fled.

WINNERSH, Eng.—Farmer Percy Richardson found himself on the horns of a dilemma Sunday night. He had the choice of facing a mad bull or freezing to death.

Richardson was flung into a pond by the bull after a furious chase across a meadow. For 20 minutes he stood chest deep in the freezing water while the bull waited by the edge, pawing the snow-covered ground.

Finally Richardson could stand the cold no longer. He waded from the water and made for a nearby tree. The bull caught him and tossed him into the lower branches. For another 15 minutes Richardson clung to his haven, occasionally shouting, "Help! Mad bull!"

A passing farmer heard the shouts and came to Richardson's rescue with a tractor. The bull was cornered and later shot.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE—A Presbyterian minister suggested today Queen Elizabeth should invite some of London's homeless to come and live in Buckingham Palace.

"There must be a great deal of room to spare in the palace," Rev. William Barbour wrote in his church magazine.

"I know if the Queen allowed people in need for accommodation to share her house many other people would follow suit."

VANCOUVER—Three stubborn swimmers refused to give in when the Polar Bear Club held its annual New Year's Day swim in English Bay Monday.

Wolfe Schuldt, 24, Beverley Anne Cronin, 17, and Barry Sullivan, 19, had to be called out after 57 minutes in the 43-degree water—some time after 106 others had waded back to shore.

"That isn't fair," called Miss Cronin from the fog shrouding the bay.

"But that's my husband out there," called Mrs. Schuldt from the beach.

Eventually the three came out together, equal winners.

The swimmers ranged in age from the perennial entrant Mrs. Catherine Bush, 83, to three-year-old Bruce Stewart.

An unidentified man who went in fully clothed apart from the others wasn't allowed to collect a prize.

TRURO, N.S.—Lawrence MacGillivray of Spencer's Island, N.S., has his $1,000 bill back after several days of anxiety.

He passed the bill at a local hardware store for a $2 note and took his change without noticing the difference. Gerald Quigley, the store proprietor, did not notice it either until later.

Quigley kept the bill, expecting the harassed donor to advertise. MacGillivray did, identifying the bill by serial number. A few days later he had his $1,000 back.

OTTAWA—A dog has joined the Diefenbaker household.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker received the as yet nameless Golden Labrador male pup from his wife as a Christmas gift, and pup and prime minister are reported forming what might in political terms be called "an affectionate association."

Mr. Diefenbaker's last dog was a German Shepherd he had back in his days as freshman member of Parliament for Lake Centre.

He hasn't had much time for pets since then, and Mrs. Diefenbaker suspects she will have to look after the puppy's care and feeding.

AFTER FLORIDA TRIP

Teacher, Girl Found Near Home

CAYUGA, Ont. (CP)—A tree since the day she vanished. A young school teacher will appear in court here Thursday to face a charge of abducting a 15-year-old girl pupil whom she took on an 11-day trip to Florida and back.

Charles Richeson appeared before Justice of the Peace Alice J. Murphy Monday and was remanded in custody.

The pair was found by police Monday huddled beneath a blanket in a car less than seven miles from the home of the girl, Susan Vernette.

The couple went to Florida and were en route to Hamilton, 20 miles north of here, when the car ran out of gas. "Tired, sick and cold," they had huddled under the blanket to keep from freezing in the 15-degree weather.

Police said the pair had been to Jacksonville, Fla., and that bills from several Florida motels were found in the car along with a toy panda, a woman's white overcoat, a pair of high-heeled shoes and some groceries.

Police said that Richeson left with $325 but he did not have a cent when found.

After being questioned by police, the girl was returned to her home where her brothers and sisters gave her presents that had been waiting for her under the Christmas tree.

Pressure Feared by Tshombe

ELISABETHVILLE (Reuters) — Katanga's secessionist President Moïse Tshombe has rejected the central government's call for the Katangan Assembly to meet at the United Nations base at Kamina.

Tshombe called the central government's action "illegal" Monday and announced he was going ahead with plans to have the assembly meet Wednesday in Elisabethville, the provincial capital.

Kamina is also in Katanga, but Tshombe apparently feels the central government would be able to bring pressure to bear on assembly delegates there when they meet to satisfy his Dec. 21 agreement with Premier Cyrille Adoula.

On its part, the central government fears the strength of Tshombe's influence if the assembly meets here.

Tshombe also announced that he has ordered the 1,800-man Katangan garrison at Kongolo to withdraw after fierce fighting with central government troops for control of the town for nearly a week.

MINING CENTRE FALLS

The tin-mining centre of Manono has also fallen to anti-Tshombe forces and there were reports that the Balubakat, the political wing of the Baluba tribes, who are bitter enemies of Tshombe, control one-third of the province.

However, Tshombe denied radio reports that the Kapona, also under attack by the central government, had fallen.

Tshombe accused the central government troops of pillaging and burning villages around Kongolo. He said Katangan army casualties were slight, but many civilians had been killed by mortar fire.

DREDGE SAFE ENDING EPIC OF ATLANTIC

HALIFAX (CP) — The trouble-plagued dredge Cartagena reached Halifax harbor today, barely escaping a blizzard.

The $4,000,000 dredge, owned by the Standard Dredging Company of New York, tied up alongside a salvage pier after the Canadian tug Foundation-Vigilant brought her into port in a snowstorm that struck the Nova Scotia coast.

For 2½ days the Vigilant had struggled in heavy seas to tow her cantankerous charge 200 miles to safety.

The Cartagena's troubles began Christmas Day when she broke away from the Vigilant while being towed from Quebec City to Baltimore. The two vessels were then about 200 miles south of Halifax.

ECM To Try Again On Farm Policies

BRUSSELS (AP) — The European Common Market council of ministers Saturday night pushed back the deadline on whether to pass into the second stage of economic integration. They were unable to agree on a common agricultural policy.

The Common Market treaty calls for the members to enter what is considered the most decisive stage at midnight Sunday night, but the ministers adjourned until Thursday without decision on whether to take the step.

Ludwig Erhard, West German minister of economics and present council chairman, told reporters that the council adjourned only for the holidays and asserted agreement would be reached quickly once the council resumed talks.

The European Economic Community agreement calls for a full economic and customs union of its members in three stages of four years each. Each stage is to bring them one-third of the way to-

NO MIGHTY POWER NOW MAC REMINDS BRITONS

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan reminded the British nation Sunday it is no longer the mighty power that once policed the world and must depend on its allies to survive.

Macmillan, in a sober New Year's message, said Britain's "period of supremacy" in the world is gone and that its role now is that of a working partner "in the great alliance which the free world has built against the Communist threat."

New President Promises Freedom for Dominicans

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — Rafael Bonnelly, president-to-be of the Dominican Republic's new council of state, promised Dominicans freedom of assembly and discussion Monday and warned the armed forces against interference in the affairs of the new anti-Trujillo government.

Bonnelly, named to succeed President Joaquín Balaguer as head of the ruling body, declared at the swearing-in of the seven-man council that freedom to meet and discuss all issues would be observed "because truth can be achieved only through conscientious and dispassionate discussion."

He said that the council, which will assume all legislative and executive powers until installation of an elected government early in 1963, wished to emphasize "our decided endeavor to maintain unalterable" the armed forces' non-political status.

Maj. Gen. Pedro Rodríguez Echavarría, chief of the armed forces, has vowed to support the council. Rodríguez Echavarría led a military move which crushed an apparent coup planned by Trujillo diehards last October and paved the way for the expulsion of the family of the late Generalissimo Rafael Trujillo.

Sworn in as vice-president of the council, Bonnelly will take over from Balaguer when the latter resigns, possibly within a week. Balaguer drew up the plan for an interim government and promised to quit when the Organization of American States lifts its economic and diplomatic sanctions against the Dominican Republic.

President Kennedy has announced the United States favors lifting the sanctions imposed against the old Trujillo regime for plotting to assassinate President Romulo Betancourt of Venezuela.

Bonnelly represents the National Civic Union, major opposition faction which agreed to give the Balaguer plan a chance after weeks of off-and-on negotiations.

400 Held in Lebanon as Revolt By Anti-Nasser Rightists Fails

BEIRUT (AP) — About 400 persons were reported under arrest today, following the unsuccessful uprising by a right-wing extremist group seeking to push Lebanon into an anti-Nasser bloc with other Arab countries.

Large stores of arms were also seized Monday in raids on villages where the Popular Social party maintained strongholds. The party wants Iraq, Syria, Lebanon, Jordan, Palestine and Cyprus joined under one Arab flag but strongly opposes President Nasser's pan-Arab movement led from Cairo.

Premier Rashid Karami's cabinet dissolved the party and announced restrictions on political parties, the press and foreigners. This followed reports that many of the plotters were from Syria, Jordan and Palestine.

Two captains who spearheaded the uprising Sunday were still at large.

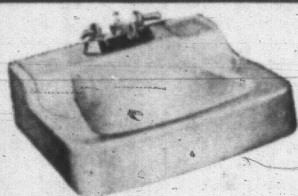

At least five persons were killed in sharp fighting before the plotters fled.
